CAMPAIGN EDITION.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES—CAMPAIGN EDITION.

CAMPAIGN EDITION.

During the ensuing Presidential Canvass, we shall publish a Special Edition for the convenience of those who desire the latest and most trustworthy political intelligence.

Having made ample arrangements for securing the earliest reports of meetings, conventions, and other occurrences of political interest, we shall, throughout the Presidential canvass, publish fuller information relating to the progress of the campaign than any other New-York paper. We aim only at supplying the public with the most complete information on all current affairs.

Subscribers to our Campaign Edition will therefore secure an exhaustive summary of the political news of the day, besides receiving the general news from all parts of the World, obtained from the best sources, and rearranged and prepared specially for this edition.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is a Republican newspaper, and will, during the canvass, now fairly commenced, steadfastly maintain the established principles of that Party. It will support the regular nominees of the Philadelphia Convention, and do its share in securing their triumphant election in November. It regards the success of the Republican Party as an object of the very first importance, and will give no support to irregular or "bolting" nominations, which can only result in the return of the Democrats to power. There are projects of all kinds on foot for dissolving the Republican Party, and the TIMES will oppose them all. Its course in reference to the Tammany Ring, at a time when all the other daily papers in New-York obstructed and discouraged its efforts, attests its sincerity in the cause of Reform. The TIMES stood alone in demanding Reform from 1869 to the close of 1871—now other journals are attempting to make political capital out of the mere repetition of the cry. There is no sincere and honest proposal for reform, in any branch of the Government, which will not be heartily supported by the TIMES. But it will not conspire in assisting ambitious politicians or demagogues to reach power under false pretenses. It will not encourage defection from the party. It regards the Philadelphia Convention as the only body authorized to speak and act for the Republican Party.

TERMS:

The CAMPAIGN EDITION of the NEW-YORK TIMES will be furnished to mail subscribers for the six months next ensuing, for the sum of FIFTY CENTS. All copies sent to the same Post-office to be mailed to one address.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES,

As a Republican journal, will be devoted, as in the past, to an intelligent and firm support of the Republican Party.

It will sustain, with all the force and influence at its command, the principles and policy which have rendered that Party so justly famous in our history. It will advocate those measures by which the honor, the peace, and the prosperity of the nation can be best conserved and promoted.

Started in September, 1851, The TIMES has for many years been recognized as among the most successful, popular, and influential newspapers in the country. Two of its original proprietors still direct its policy; and, with greatly-increased resources and experience, will spare no pains to extend and strengthen its claims upon the confidence and support of the public.

Its EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the public rather than any clique of professional "politicians." It has no one connected with it who seeks office, or who will become a candidate for office. Its CORRESPONDENCE will be full and timely, and its REPORTS will be prepared with the utmost care. The LITERARY DEPARTMENT will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day.

As a family paper, free from all appeals to vulgar and impure tastes, the TIMES will continue unexceptionable, and may be safely admitted to every domestic circle.

The Sunday edition of the TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper.

The WEEKLY and SEMI-WEEKLY editions of the TIMES are compiled with the greatest care, and will contain selections from the most important contents of the Daily issue, besides matters of interest to the agricultural sections of the country. All who prefer a newspaper but once or twice a week will find these editions admirably suited to their requirements.

A special edition of the TIMES for EUROPEAN circulation is published every Wednesday and Saturday, in time for the European mails, and will be valuable and welcome to our friends abroad, whether Americans or of any other nationality than our own.

All these editions of the TIMES are of the very largest size, on large quarto sheets, each containing fifty-six columns, printed in clear and legible type, at the following rates:

THE CARLISTS.

The Defeat and Reported Capture of Don Carlos—Inhabitants of Navarre Escaping to France to Avoid Impressment by the Carlists.

MADRID, May 6.—The latest dispatches from the scene of the engagement in Navarre between the Government troops and the forces commanded by Don CARLOS state that forty of the insurrectionists were killed, ten wounded, and 630 taken prisoners. The loyal troops are in close pursuit of the retreating Carlists. Prisoners are continally arriving at San Sebastian.

LONDON, May 6.—A special dispatch from Paris to the Standard, published in its evening edition, says that Don CARLOS and 100 of his followers have been captured by the Spanish Government forces.

The inhabitants of Navarre flee from impressment into Don CARLOS' ranks.

PARIS, May 6.—Three hundred inhabitants of the Province of Navarre, fled into France to escape impressment into the ranks of Don CARLOS, previous to the engagement with the loyal forces.

A telegram from Bayonne says it is again rumored in that city that Don CARLOS has been captured by the Spanish Government forces. RADA has certainly fled to France. The Government of Spain has made a demand upon France for his expulsion from French territory.

No Confirmation of Don Carlos' Reported Capture.

LONDON, May 6—Midnight.—No confirmation of the reported capture of Don CARLOS by the Spanish troops has been received.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Dock Laborers' Strike—Metropolitan Police to Keep Order.

LONDON, May 6.—The dock laborers have joined the sailors of Southampton in a strike, which causes great inconvenience. The strikers gather in large crowds and make noisy demonstrations. A detachment of Metropolitan police has been dispatched from London to Southampton to assist the authorities in preserving order.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Earl Russell's Motion Probably Still Further Postponed in the House of Lords.

LONDON, May 6.—It is thought the motion of Lord RUSSELL for an address to the Queen praying that the British Arbitrator at Geneva be instructed to withdraw from the Tribunal of Arbitration until the claims of the United States for consequential damages are withdrawn, which was to have been made at the session of Parliament to-night, will be again postponed.

MEXICO.

American Railway Enterprise Approaching the Republic—Dinner to the Press in the City of Mexico—Memory of Prof. Morse.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 27, via HAVANA, May 6.—Mr. PLUMB, at the banquet in this city to the members of the Press, made a speech in which he said: "The railway system of the United States is rapidly approaching the borders of Mexico. The International Railroad Company of Texas, which I represent, aided by liberal donations from Texas, and controlled by influential Northern capitalists, is now constructing a railrord across Texas, and next year will nearly reach the Rio Grande. It is desired to continue the line through to the capital and to the Pacific coast of Mexico."

Señor CLEMENTE VASQUEZ, in the course of a speech at the same banquet, answered the objections of patriotic Mexicans who fear the introduction of American enterprise in the country will lead to its subjugation, by showing that an equilibrium of races existed on this continent as well as in Europe. In this was the strongest guarantee of Mexico's independence, and the Americans recognized it as well as the Mexicans. For if the United States Government required fonr years to subdue the Southerners, a people largely made up of the Latin race, how could it sustain itself with the Anglo-Saxon element in the minority, as it would be with the absorption of Mexico, and the admission of a number of new Latin States.

The projectors of the Mexican World's Fair are active in their preparations for the exhibition.

A telegraphic demonstration is proposed in honor of the memory of the late Prof. MORSE.

The Situation at Matamoras—Reinforcements for the Juarists.

MATAMORAS, May 6.—The steamer Tabasco arrived this evening at the mouth of the Rio Grande from Vera Cruz with a reinforcement of several hundred troops for this city, and munitions of war.

Gen. CORTINA has been relieved of the command of the regular cavalry, which has been incorporated into the force of Gen. CEVALLOS, and, with the reinforcements just arrived, makes his available force about 2,000 regulars and 1,000 National Guards. CORTINA has still a small volunteer cavalry force acting as scouts.

The revolutionists are said to be encamped near Reynosa, where they are throwing up earthworks on the Rio Grande, which forms one flank of their camp. It is said that Gen. MARTINEZ is coming down from the mountains with 2,000 cavalry to join TREVINO and QUIROGA at Reynosa, when another advance will be made on this city.

FRANCE.

Capitulating Generals Censured—Communist Prisoners En Route for the South Pacific.

PARIS, May 6.—The report of the Committee on Capitulations censures the officers who commanded at Toul, Laon and Soissons during the war, because when they surrendered those places to the German troops they neglected to spike the guns on the fortifications.

Two hundred and fifty communists, who have been sentenced to various terms of imprisonment, and have, since their trials, been confined in the fortifications on the Isle of Aix, sailed today for New-Caledonia, in the South Pacific Ocean, to serve out their sentences.

Miss NELLIE GRANT today accompanied Mmes. THIERS and DE REMUSAT to Versailles, where she witnessed the playing of the fountains. The party subsequently lunched at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The National Convention of Photographers.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 6.—The third National Convention of photographers will convene here to-morrow. A large number of delegates from all sections of the country have already arrived, and their number will be greatly increased by the trains of to-night and to-morrow morning. In connection with this Convention there will be a grand exhibition of photographs in Masonic Hall. There are pictures now here from many of the principal galleries in this country, and also from England, France, and Germany. This exhibition is expected to be the finest ever made in the United States.

THE RECENT CONVENTION.

Embarrassment of the Democratic Leaders—Mr. Bowles on Mr. Fenton—Mr. Greeley's Friend Shown Up.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The political situation here concerning the Cincinnati nominees has not materially changed. One thing seems assured beyond all question, and that is that the Greeley nomination has entered into the Democratic camp as a demoralizing influence. Heretofore the passive policy of the Democrats has permitted them to observe with malicious delight the contest going on in the Republican Party. Now that it has produced such an abortive result it comes straight home to the Democratic Party to pester it with the question of acceptance. Already nearly every prominent Democratic member of Congress is bored with an abundance of advice both for and against the indorsement of GREELEY. The natural impulse of nearly every one is to reject it at once. But other considerations come in, and this renders many of them non-committal. It is reported here today that PENDLETON and HENDRICKS have given in their adhesion to the ticket, but that GROESBECK declines. The Republicans in Congress are far more united than before the Convention, and the general feeling among them is one of hope that the Democrats will take up the Cincinnati nominees. Those members from Ohio and Illinois who have been looked upon as sympathizing with the probable issue of Cincinnati are now entirely cured of any tendencies in that direction. Mr. SAMUEL BOWLES' published card concerning Mr. Senator FENTON'S participation in the intrigue to nominate Judge DAVIS at Cincinnati is borne out by the knowledge and recollection of others, who were in a position to know. Mr. FENTON was in frequent consultation with the Davis leaders from Illinois, and would have continued his operations, no doubt, but for the assault upon the scheme made on Monday night and Tuesday by Senator SCHURZ and the Halstead-White-Bowles coterie of journalists. This caused him to leave at once, which occasioned much surprise, as Mr. GREELEY'S candidacy at that juncture was in great need of his active efforts. It is thoroughly established that Mr. FENTON'S interest in Mr. GREELEY'S success only arose after the Senator returned to Washington, and when Mr. GREELEY began to show more strength in the Convention. Mr. BOWLES is entirely right in saying that Mr. FENTON had nothing to do with Mr. GREELEY'S success, and it is not improbable that if Mr. BOWLES supports GREELEY he will give this as one of his reasons.

Where Will the Democrats Hold Their Convention?

WASHINGTON, May 5.—While the Democrats in Congress are agreed that the 4th of July shall be the time for the assembling of the National Democratic Convention, they are not in harmony as to place. St. Louis, Louisville and Indianapolis are respectively named.

Opinions on the Nominations in Mississippi—Greeley's Friends in the South.

JACKSON, Miss., May 6.—The Cincinnati nominations and platform are well received. The Mississippi Democratic Press are outspoken for co-operation with the Liberal Republicans. The Vicksburg Herald and Meridian Gazette, both leading Democratic papers, say it is a good ticket. The Meridian Mercury supports the ticket unqualifiedly, saying it goes for GREELEY and will not wait the action of the main clique or party. The Clarion, the State organ of the Democratic Party for years, says the platform and nominations pave the way for the union of all good men for the restoration of peace and prosperity throughout the South and the country at large. The colored vote is predicted for GREELEY.

English Comments on the Nomination for the Presidency—Effect on the Stock Exchange.

LONDON, May 6.—The London papers this morning comment upon the nomination of HORACE GREELEY for President of the United States by the Liberal Republican Convention at Cincinnati. The Times says the nomination of Mr. GREELEY is farcical, and his election is hopeless. It, however, kills President GRANT'S chance for re-election, and makes certain the nomination of a candidate by the Democrats.

The Post thinks that Mr. GREELEY will be successful if his nomination is indorsed by either of the other Conventions yet to be held; but such action, the Post thinks, is impossible.

The Telegraph says the nomination of Mr. GREELEY directly concerns England, because he is hostile to the Treaty of Washington, and is a bigoted protectionist.

The News praises Mr. GREELEY, but doubts his fitness for the position of Chief-Magistrate of a great nation.

The uncertain aspect of the American Presidential question has had a marked influence upon United States Government bonds, and the market for these securities has become flat.

FLORIDA.

Gov. Reed's Acquittal Confirmed—Reconsideration Defeated.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 6.—The appointment of J. R. EMMONS, counsel for Gov. REED in the late Gubernatorial contest, as Attorney-General for the State of Florida, has been confirmed by the Senate. In the Assembly, this morning, Mr. CESSNA moved that the impeachment charges against Gov. REED be reconsidered, which was defeated. The Legislature adjourned sine die at 12 o'clock, noon, today. There was great rejoicing at St. Augustine, and thirty-nine guns were fired in honor of Gov. REED'S acquittal.

THE ARMS INVESTIGATION.

Minority Report of the House Committee—The Government Officials Exonerated.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Mr. ACKER, of Pennsylvania, from the minority of the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department, submitted a report today in reference to the sales of arms to France. The report states that the greater number of the witnesses examined were officers of the War and Ordnance Department, or were connected therewith, and insists, in the first place, that the War Department gave a latitudinarian construction to the act of Congress of July 20, 1868, authorizing the sale of damaged arms, ordnance, stores, &c., which is dangerous to a republican form of government, where a strict construction of all acts of Congress ought to be the rule. Secondly, that the War and Ordnance Department must have, or could have known, if they had made the inquiry, that the bulk of the arms were going to France.

There is no evidence that any person, except one, received any pay or commission from this sale, and he was not connected with any Department of the Government. He received $10,000 from a firm of arms dealers in Baltimore, on account of a sale by it from the Navy Department. He states that he received the money as commissions, and that no other person got any portion of the money.

TEXAS.

Protecting the Border from the Mexican Cattle-Thieves.

BROWNSVILLE, May 6.—Capt. MCCONNELL arrived here this morning with a company of United States cavalry from San Antonio, and reported to Gen. MCCOOK, at Fort Brown, for duty in protecting the frontier from the Mexican cattle-thieves. Another company of cavalry reached Ringgold barracks a few days ago, and Gen. MCCOOK has orders to mount a company of infantry to look after the cattle robbers. With his mounted force the border will have some little protection from the Mexican raiders, but in view of the disbanding of CORTINA'S volunteers, a strong force will be needed here to see that they do not come to Texas to renew their robberies during their enforced idleness on the Mexican side.

ALBANY.

The Charter to be Acted on in the Assembly Today—Amendments to the Senate Bill—The Registry and Election Law—Miller's Case Again—Veto of the Beach Pneumatic Bill.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, May 6.—Mr. JUDD, from the Assembly Committee on Cities, reported the New-York Charter this evening, and it was made the special order for to-morrow. A good many verbal changes are made in it from the somewhat crude form in which it passed the Senate. The material changes are as follows: The special act of 1870 empowering the Controller to appoint a fifth Tax Commissioner is repealed, and the salaries of the four Commissioners are reduced from $10,000 to $6,000. The power of the Controller is curtailed in the matter of auditing bills, so that he shall not interfere in the audit of claims passed by a special act of the present Legislature. A strong pressure was brought to bear on the Committee by agents of the Council of Political Reform, to get a clause inserted prohibiting the appropriation of any money to sectarian schools, but it was feared it might endanger the passage of the charter, and it being so late in the session, a majority of the Committee thought it best to leave out the clause.

Mr. JUDD, from the same Committee, also reported without amendment the Registry and Election law for the City of New-York that passed the Senate last week.

SOUTHWICK, the go-between of Superintendent MILLER, made his appearance here today, and Mr. TOBY, this evening, got a resolution through the Assembly authorizing the Insurance Committee to reopen the Miller investigation, for the purpose of taking his testimony. He has been summoned to appear before the Committee to-morrow, and it is said MILLER'S friends are trying to spirit him out of town and avoid the examination. SOUTHWICK has stated to Auditor BELL that there was an understanding between him and MILLER that the latter was to receive twenty per cent. on the contract with WEED & PARSONS for doing the printing for the Department, and that MILLER did so receive that portion.

The Brooklyn Ferry bill was ordered to a third reading in the Assembly this evening in the same shape that it passed the Senate. It compels GEO. LAW to run his boats every eight minutes during the busy part of the day, morning and evening, and every ten minutes for the remainder up to 9 P. M., and every half hour during the night; fare not to exceed two cents, except on the Roosevelt-street Ferry.

The Governor, this evening, sent in a veto of the Beach Pneumatic bill. One of the chief grounds of the veto is that it runs a portion of the route over the track of the Central Under-ground, and thus infringes upon vested rights acquired under the charter of that Company. The same objection applies to VANDERBILT'S under-ground scheme, and the veto is accordingly regarded as a death-blow to the scheme of the great monopolist. The bill amended, the Central Under-ground charter is therefore looked upon as the only practicable legislation for an under-ground railroad this session.

JACOB SHARPE'S bill, directing the Controller to perfect the sale of the Twenty-third-street Horse Railroad franchise, was signed by the Governor, today, which is a great disappointment to the property-owners in that street, who protested so energetically against it.

Mr. JUDD, from the Committee on Commerce and Navigation, presented the report on the investigation into the alleged abuses of the Harbor-Masters of New-York. The report says: Numerous witnesses were examined and the investigation disclosed a system of extortions which may not inappropriately be characterized as organized piracy upon the commerce of New-York. In addition to paying the regular fees provided by law, vessels are subjected to a series of exactions almost from the time of their arrival to their departure.

First—Ship-owners and agents generally testified that the Harbor-Masters were rarely if ever to be found on their districts, and that when applying for berths for their vessels they were compelled to negotiate with middle-men.

Second—These middle-men, as they are termed, are generally tow-boatmen, wharfingers and sometimes stevedores. They make the arrangements and receive the extortion fees which are levied for docking vessels. Witnesses testified that they had been compelled to wait for days, in some instances, before procuring berths, because they refused to pay the "stakes" demanded. The amounts so levied and extorted are generally embraced under the head of "towage fees," or "for services rendered." Large numbers of these bills were presented to the Committee by merchants who swore that no services whatever had been performed.

Third—A few firms enjoy the monopoly of the towage business. Witnesses testified that they could not obtain berths unless employing these firms, which systematically black-mailed them. A member of one of these firms testified that he and his partner paid $1,000 down, for the monopoly, and two and one-half per cent. afterward. This was done in accordance with an arrangement effected, and the witness understood that the percentage was to go to the Harbor-Master on his district, named JOHN BRICE.

Fourth—While the illegal sums collected were not traced directly to the pockets of the Harbor-Masters, they must have been knowing to their exactions. Is it reasonable to suppose that they have been willing to incur all the opprobrium for the extortions, and leave the spoils to others? Though an opportunity was afforded, none of them took the stand to rebut the damaging charges against them. The Captain of the Port, who is placed over the Harbor-Masters, testified that he had become convinced in his own mind that a system of extortion prevailed, though he had "learned, with perhaps as great surprise as the Committee themselves," of the extent of the exactions. He further added: "I think, in regard to the abuses in this port, some have outgrown others, and my knowledge of public affairs has convinced me that this is a period of general corruption."

Fifth—While these abuses are not of recent date, having prevailed to a greater or less extent for years, they have greatly multiplied during the past two years. The testimony of all the witnesses are to the effect that they were now more oppressive than ever before.

Sixth—The effect of this systematized spoliation upon the commercial interests of New-York has been very perceptible. Ships have been driven to Baltimore and other ports.

Seventh—The report concludes as follows:

The ship-owners and ship agents cannot wholly escape the responsibility for these growing abuses. In some instances they have (as was shown on the investigation) tendered these bonuses in order to facilitate the movements of their vessels, and thereby encouraged black-mailing. Furthermore, they do not appear to have displayed the energy which might have been expected in resisting the outrages to which they have been subjected. True, many of them testified that it was useless to make opposition, and yet there can be no doubt that united, systematic and vigorous action on their part might have secured some relief. A fact, however, that there has not been such action does not palliate the guilt of the offender. The State is in duty bound to guard her shipping interests against the spoliations of freebooters in the disguise of officials also. These interests look with confidence to this reform body for relief. A bill which aims to afford such relief has been presented to the Legislature.

Signed,
DAVID W. JUDD,
GEORGE C. BENNETT,
THOMAS W. GREEN.

Increased Vigilance of the Revenue Officers—The Value of Bay Oil.

One index of the greater efficiency of the Custom-house authorities, in the prevention of smuggling, may be found, probably, in some of the prices obtained at the recent annual sale of goods seized at the Custom-house. Bay oil, a very valuable article, sold at from $30 to $30 25 per bottle, more than ever before brought at a similar sale. This oil is used in the manufacture of bay rum, one bottle of it making about a hogshead of the rum, and from the facility with which an article of so much value may be concealed in small bulk, smugglers have been so successful in running it in, that for a long time none of it has been entered at the Custom-house by importers. The duty is about $18 per bottle, and smugglers have been able to sell it for from $15 to $20, which is little above its original cost. The price obtained at Thursday's sale shows that the illegal traders are being driven from the market.

MURDERED AT A PICNIC.

A Fireman Fatally Beaten by a Gang of Sixth Ward Roughs.

The Mutual Light Guards of the Sixth Ward, an association of rowdy characters, had a picnic in Hamilton Park, Sixty-eighth-street and Third-avenue, yesterday evening. Messrs. BENDER and HELD, the proprietors of the place, regretted having let their premises to such a cohort of roughs, for at almost every moment a desperate affray or murder was anticipated, judging from the desperate character of the men congregated there. Among those on the grounds was WM. KRAFT, of No. 21 Suffolk-street, a fireman, twenty-one years of age. While returning from the picnic to his home, KRAFT was assailed by a gang of roughs whom he had offended in some way on the picnic-grounds, and beaten to death. The gang surrounded him at the corner of Sixty-sixth-street and Third-avenue, knocked him down and beat and kicked him about the head and face until all consciousness had left him. On the arrival of the Police he was lying on the pavement senseless. The roughs had by that time made their escape. CRAFT was removed to the Station-house in Fifty-ninth-street, where he was examined by Police Surgeon SWANN. It was found that his skull was fractured. An ambulance was summoned and he was removed to Bellevue Hospital. There is no hope of his recovery. Capt. GUNNER, with Detectives McGOWAN and CROWLEY were scouring the Nineteenth Ward at a late hour this morning in quest of CRAFT'S assailants, but had not succeeded in effecting the arrest of any one of them.

LESSER FIRES YESTERDAY.

Fire at Manhattan Market.

The Manhattan Market yesterday morning suffered a damage of $250 from a fire which broke out in the belfry, on the north side, in the centre of the building. The fire was originated by the soldering furnace of the tin men engaged in roofing, and was put out in half a minute.

Fire in Fifth-Avenue.

The window curtain in the parlor of the residence of Mr. THOMAS THOMAS, No. 296 Fifth-avenue, caught fire from a gas-jet last night. The fire was extinguished by Roundsman CURTIS, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct. Damage to furniture, $100; insured.

Fire in Spring-Street.

The straw-goods manufactory of NATHAUSON & ROBB, on the first floor of No. 97 Spring-street, was damaged $300 on stock and building by fire last night; insured.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Gov. HOLDEN will not take any active part in political affairs in North Carolina.

A Democratic paper in Troy suggests CLARKSON N. POTTER as its party's candidate for President.

Hon. CHARLES J. FAULKNER, Jr., declines to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney-General of West Virginia.

Gov. CALDWELL, Judge SETTLE, Col. T. L. HARGROVE and other Republicans are to make many speeches in North Carolina before the election.

The Republicans of Wyoming Territory will hold a delegate Convention, in Rawling's Springs, on Thursday, to elect delegates to the Philadelphia Convention.

Col. M. S. ROBINSON has withdrawn as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Eighth District of Indiana, leaving the field clear for Mr. TYNER.

A West Virginia Democratic paper cheerfully admits that Mr. GREELEY "means well," and it hesitates not to say that "his big human heart outweighs a whole lifetime of Radicalism."

ANDREW JOHNSON reiterated recently his refusal to run for Congress, and at the same time emphatically condemned the proposition for the Democratic Party to support the nominee of the Cincinnati Convention.

The Philadelphia Press says that after a careful reading of the utterances of several hundred journals, it is impressed with the fact that GREELEY, instead of dividing the Republican Party, has rent the Democracy in twain.

Another Liberal Republican Convention is already talked of, and it is said that Ex-Secretary COX, Judge STANLEY MATHEWS and Judge HOADLEY have written to Washington that they will heartily enter into such a movement, and that they believe it can be successfully carried through.

A letter from Richmond, Va., says much surprise and indignation were excited there by the action of two or three gentlemen, known as Conservatives at home, who appeared as delegates at the Cincinnati Liberal Republican Convention. The action of the Secretary of the State Conservative Committee is especially condemned.

The Richmond Whig says that JOHN HARMER GILMER, Esq., who has represented that city in the Virginia Legislature and in other positions of honor and trust, and who has heretofore been a Conservative, is so bitterly opposed to Mr. HORACE GREELEY that he publicly declares his resolution to vote for GRANT and to stump the State for him.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7—1 A. M.—The barometer is highest over the eastern Gulf States. Cloudy and threatening weather continues over Northern New-England; thence southward and westward clear weather very generally.

PROBABILITIES.

Rising barometer, northerly to westerly winds and clear weather will extend south-eastward over the north-west and upper lake region and Ohio Valley on Tuesday. Clear and partially cloudy weather will prevail over the New-England, Middle and Southern States, with southerly winds, veering to westerly. Dangerous winds are not anticipated.

Opening of Navigation at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, May 6.—The docks and harbor present a lively appearance this morning. A large fleet of propellers left for the upper lakes. The propeller Badger State arrived from Chicago. The ice in large quantities extends out about fifteen miles, making it difficult for any but the larger class of propellers to force their way through. Vessels of a lighter class are being towed through Chippewa Creek, on the Canada side. Navigation has commenced.

Twentieth Assembly District Grant Club.

A large number of supporters of the Administration met at No. 1,000 Third-avenue, last evening, for the purpose of forming a Republican Campaign Club in the Twentieth Assembly District. Mr. NICHOLAS BABCOCK presided, pro tem. The following named getlemen were elected permanent officers: President, EDWARD FITCH; Vice-President, E. J. ATTINELLI; Recording Secretary, HENRY C. BROAS; Corresponding Secretary, WM. BENJAMIN; Treasurer, HORATIO N. HARDY.

The Reunion of the Third Army Corps.

From the Philadelphia Ledger, May 6.

The Third Army Corps Union held their eighth anniversary in this city on Saturday last, and it was attended by a large number of delegates from Philadelphia and elsewhere. The New-York and Western delegations arrived at the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot at 11¾ o'clock, and were met by a committee of the Philadelphia members and taken in carriages to Belmont Mansion, where lunch was served, after which they took a drive through the Park. In the afternoon a meeting was held in Select Council Chamber, at which the annual election for officers took place, resulting as follows: President, Mrjor-Gen. Charles K. Is it a Journal or an Organ?

From the Evening Post, May 6.

The Evening Post on Saturday, in the language of the curious public, asked the Tribune whether, considering the latest political phenomenon, it would be independent or an organ. The Tribune had made stout protestations that it would no longer be a party organ. In other words, its editor dissolved another copartnership of the politicians in the same manner that he dissolved the partnership of "SEWARD, WEED & GREELEY" some years ago, and probably for the same reason—because the senior partners refused to divide equally the honors and the profits of the distinguished "house." This question was, therefore, pertinent.

The Tribune answers it this morning in a characteristic manner. It prints what it calls "the comments of the leading journals of all parties" on the Cincinnati nomination, being a page of extracts. Among these it gives part of an article from the Evening Post, relating to the Convention in general, but carefully excluding all that we said in that article, and another about the conspicuous unfitness of Mr. GREELEY, by habit and by education, for the office of President. It is the most elaborate and pointed discussion of his public character that has yet appeared; but not a word of it is allowed to be seen in a column professing to give all sides. So the Tribune is still, by its own showing, an organ, and neglects or distorts the opinions of its neighbors to suit its favorite faction. Let us hear no more from that quarter about independent journalism. A better "catch" for new subscriptions would be a return to early rose potatoes and premium strawberries.

[It may be added that the Tribune further shows its determination to be a "newspaper" by suppressing the call for the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia—an act of dishonesty which no journal can be excused for committing.]

CINCINNATI, Saturday, May 4, 1872.

Writing from St. Louis ten days before the meeting of the Cincinnati Convention, I endeavored to give the public some leading facts that served to show when, where, in what spirit and by what means it originated. Writing now in the calm which has followed the terrible tempest of its last hours, I must try to cull from the confusion of the last week a few incidents that will illustrate the spirit of the gathering and the methods by which it reached its conclusion. In the performance of this task I will have little to say that is absolutely novel, but I will be able to present facts in a more orderly shape than it was possible to do by telegraph, and thus for the first time enable the readers of the TIMES to understand what has occurred here, and how it was brought about.

THE PRIME MOVERS.

As the time for the meeting approached it was the first care of the Liberals to impress upon the country that it was to be an imposing assemblage, both in the character and number of its attendants, and in this, at the very last hour, they measurably succeeded. The call of the Missouri bolters, issued on the 24th of January, met with no formal response in any part of the country, except from the Ohio revenue reformers, headed by Hon. STANLEY MATHEWS and Judge HOADLEY, until just before the Connecticut election, when the New-York letter, signed by HORACE GREELEY, HENRY R. SELDEN, ETHAN ALLEN, WALDO HUTCHINS, SINCLAIR TOUSEY, and others of lesser note, appeared. After this reinforcement no additional recruits came forward until the 17th of April, when the letter of the Illinois recalcitrants, to which the names of JESSE K. DUBOIS, HORACE WHITE and thirty-six others of some prominence in the politics of the State were appended, was published. Time was then getting precious, and within a week afterward the formal adhesion of one hundred Indiana defunct politicians was announced in a letter published in the Indianapolis Sentinel, a Democratic organ. There were no other formal declarations of combined committal to the movement, and it was therefore founded upon the one hundred and twenty-eight Missouri bolters, the New-York squad, the thirty-eight Illinois recalcitrants, and the one hundred Indiana defuncts, until the 30th of April, when a pretense of a Liberal State Convention was held at Covington and a delegation was appointed for Kentucky, which was headed by CASSIUS M. CLAY. There were many independent guerrillas such as McCLURE, of Pennsylvania, and SCOVELL, of New-Jersey, who joined these semi-organized forces, and they were also joined by a horde of cormorants from the South led by Gov. WARMOTH, of Louisiana, and Judge CARPENTER, of South Carolina, who had just concluded his stumping of New Hampshire and Connecticut in the interests of the Democratic Party. While these men and their followers made up the bulk of the sixteen hundred who came here in sympathy with the movement, there were several who became known as the party of "brains and convictions" who had come here with the purest purposes, and who were actuated throughout by the loftiest patriotism. This was only a little squad of thirty or forty, and to them must be added about two hundred sincere revenue reformers—all the rest was a motley gang of unprincipled political adventurers, ready to cut each others' throats and that of their country for the sake of a selfish advantage.

THE ELEMENTS AT WORK.

No sooner had the Conventionists commenced to arrive here, than it was seen that they must be divided into several apparently irreconcilable factions. First on the ground, and then strongest in power, was the DAVIS interest, composed of the most adroit and conscienceless politicians in the movement. Foremost among them was Senator FENTON, JOHN H. DEFREES, WARD H. LAMON, LEONARD SWETT, and others who have made politics a trade for years, and have become unrivaled in all the tricks of their trade. From the revelations of the week, but especially of yesterday and today, it seems certain that this faction had sold out the movement bodily to the Democracy. It is perfectly well-known that a powerful sentiment for DAVIS had been manufactured in Washington, based upon the theory that he was the only man who would be acceptable to the Democracy. The same game was attempted to be played here. The Davis men were the first in the field, and for two or three days it seemed that nobody but the intriguer of the Supreme Court had the least chance of securing the Cincinnati prize. But all this time the Adams interest was in fact the most powerful, and I must do the movement the justice to say that it continued so throughout. And I must do it the further justice to add that it was created and maintained without the slightest use of questionable means. Until the last moment it made no attempt to bargain with anybody, and then only made an effort to save itself by an understanding with the Trumbull interest, which was not discreditable to either. There was something chivalrous in the devotion of the independent journalists, MURAT HALSTEAD, SAMUEL BOWLES and HENRY R. WATTERSON, by whom this interest had been mainly created, in their devotion to an idea. The candidacy of Mr. ADAMS was urged as truly embodying the moral significance of the movement, and was advocated under manifold difficulties, as it was not a candidacy likely to fructify in the heat of popular sympathy. The very name was redolent of feudalism in politics, and there was the odor of social as well as political aristocracy about it. Nobody could expect CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS to descend to the slightest subterfuge to obtain power, or to even approach the political slums afterward to conciliate partisans. Such a candidacy was a proof that there was something more in the movement than disappointed personal ambition, and I am perfectly willing to admit that I was surprised to find it so strong as it was. Indeed, after ADAMS and DAVIS, in these earlier stages of the game, there was nothing worthy of consideration so far as the candidates were concerned. TRUMBULL, failing to obtain the whole vote of his own State, had been only a bare possibility from the outset, and the same was true of Gratz Brown and Greeley, for other but equally powerful reasons. Brown was generally held as a political charlatan, unworthy to keep in motion the ball he had started, and Greeley was deemed unavailable because of his devotion to protection, which would be an insuperable obstacle to his carrying any of the Western States, without which the movement would be an ignominious failure. There were others mentioned for the Presidency, among whom were Gov. John M. Palmer and Gen. J. D. Cox, and there was always the chance that the Convention might seek to escape from its dissensions by the seizure of some such man.

THE CANDIDATES.

The relative standing of candidates being as stated, there were some additional facts of significance appeared on the surface of events on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. All the political intriguers were in the interest of Davis, all the corrupting combinations known to political dickering were being made in his behalf, and although Adams was really the stronger, there was danger that Davis would capture the Convention. Nobody credited Greeley with any strength, and beyond the vote of New-York, and some straggling ones in the South, he really had none. He then had in his interest very little if any of the corrupting influences of the concern, because, chiefly, these influences thought his cause not worth working for. He had some friends advocating him very zealously in a perfectly legitimate way, who continued to do so to the end, and who, seeming to be unconscious of the means by which the nomination was secured, claim the end to have been reached by their exertions. But these exertions were rather laughed at than seriously considered by the Adams men, who seeing their only danger then in the Davis ring, proceeded to smash it effectually, and by the employment only of proper agencies. Recognizing in Reuben E. Fenton the chief of these tricksters, the independent journalists went to him and said to him plainly that he must abandon the Davis job, as in case Davis was nominated the Chicago Tribune, the Cincinnati Commercial and the Springfield Republican would not only abandon the movement, but would make vigorous, unrelenting and unceasing war upon the nominee and the cause he represented. Senator Schurz had been privy to this announcement to Fenton, and the New-York intriguer, recognizing the impossibility of his undertaking, against the power arrayed against him, fled from the city. After his departure there was a remarkable fall in Davis stock. Nobody knew how the collapse had been brought about, but everybody saw that Davis had been buried beyond the hope of resurrection. This crushing of Davis was laid to McClure, who had brought out Curtin, and nobody imagined then that its real cause was the frightening of Fenton from the carrion he scented in the nomination of Davis.

THE BATTLE OF PRINCIPLES.

While these struggles as to men were going on, the party of brains and convictions were busily battling for principles. To such men as David A. Wells, Edward Atkinson, Horace White and Stanley Mathews the movement meant revenue reform, and they, as among the leaders of that party, settled upon the Missouri resolution as a sufficiently explicit declaration of belief upon the tariff question. But they speedily discovered that the Missouri resolution would not be even considered, and that there was no chance of settling upon anything acceptable to the hybrids who were to compose the Convention, except by some emasculated expressions which would mean anything or nothing, as anybody might choose to construe them. The general idea and form of the resolution on this subject which was finally adopted first came from the friends of Mr. Greeley, and was said to have the approval of that gentleman, but Mr. Atkinson, after the nomination was made public, said that Mr. Greeley had demanded as a surrender to the free-traders the platform which he had ascended as a candidate. A vast deal of talking had to be done before the watery compromise finally agreed upon was reached, and I am not sure that the Convention was much to blame that a more decided result was not attained, when such men as David A. Wells and J. K. Morehead met to agree upon a tariff resolution, and agreement to disagree was all that could result. Indeed I am not sure but the conventionists are entitled to credit for not surrendering conviction, and, as something must be done, in seeking refuge in ambiguity. The consultations and the conclusion upon the tariff plank showed indeed the incongruities and the weakness of the movement, but neither were discreditable to either side, except that in the end the free-traders were frightfully swindled in the candidate.

EFFORTS OF THE FACTIONS.

Still dealing with the preliminaries to the actual assembling of the Convention, I must advert to the vigorous efforts made by all these factions, and by the Democracy, that it was to be the most momentous event in modern politics. The meetings of the malcontents in the West were sent over the country with unusual care in the Press reports, and the whole thing was constantly exaggerated by the Democratic Press. As a sample I quote the following:

> SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 10.
> The State Register prints the following editorial: "An immense Liberal Reform movement is on foot in this city, and in a few days a call will be issued calling a State Convention to elect delegates to attend the Cincinnati Convention. The names to the call will embrace about all the prominent Republicans in the State. Some of the names to this document are already with the regular Radical call for the State Convention of May 22. Look out for breakers."

WHO ATTENDED THE GATHERING.

This dispatch went all over the country, and it had no other foundation than that it foreshadowed the letter of the Illinois thirty-eight. No such Convention was ever held, or contemplated either, so far as I have been able to learn, but the Register, as a Democratic journal, was bound to make the most of the feeling which existed in Springfield in favor of Senator Trumbull. The same means were employed in many other cases, and there was an impression throughout the country that the Republican Party was rushing en masse to Cincinnati. In fact, about sixteen hundred appeared here, many of whom were life-long Democrats, although care was taken to exclude all the latter, so far as could be done, from the delegate Convention. Not a man of weight or influence appeared from either of the States of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Nebraska, Nevada, New-Hampshire, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, or Vermont. There is grave doubt whether the most of these States had a single bona fide representative present, and some of them, I am positive, had not, but the Convention roll was handed to the Chairman by the Committee on Credentials a closed book, and such it yet remains. From the remaining States came some who were prominent as Republicans, and chief among them those from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, New-York, Pennsylvania and New-Jersey, for I do not count such men as David A. Wells, of Connecticut, Edward Atkinson, of Massachusetts, and a few other of the doctrinaires, as party men. When the Convention at last met, its bulk was found to be from New-York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri. Its directing powers were also from these States, and nothing is more farcical than to call it a National Convention. In its earlier stages it had Fenton and Defrees as its autocrats; in its last moments it had Gratz Brown and the Blairs as its lords paramounts, and the mere mention of these names is enough to show how silly it is to call it either "Liberal" Republican or Reform.

THE WORK OF THE CONVENTION.

When at last the Convention was assembled, it proceeded to its work in the manner which has been detailed in the dispatches which have been sent from here to the Times. I do not intend to rehearse all these facts over again, nor is it necessary in order that the miracle of its unexpected conclusion may be explained. It is yet claimed for this body, as it was constantly claimed for it in advance that it was to be, that it was wholly free from the corrupting influences that usually dictate the action of political assemblages, that its conclusion was reached by the spontaneous conduct of those who had constituted themselves delegates. It is my duty, by an analysis of undisputed facts, known to all the world, to say that it was no better, and may have been much worse, than the worst caucus-bound Convention ever known to American politics. Called in the name of revenue reform, it truckled to the protectionists, and declaring itself emancipated from party usages and party tyranny, it trafficed in candidates to an extent never exceeded and rarely equaled. Proclaiming itself of the people and for the people, no Convention was more utterly the creature of politicians. Leaving out of the statement the earlier slavery to the Davis Ring, I come at once to the surrender to the Greeley-Brown combination. When it first became known, late on Thursday night, that Frank Blair and Gratz Brown had arrived together, the friends of Adams became alarmed, and soon became aware that an arrangement had been made to force the nominations of Greeley and Brown. In announcing the formation of this ring, next morning, the Cincinnati Commercial said:

> "Our readers may have forgotten that some of the earliest and most significant of Greeley's letters committing himself to the opposition to Grant appeared in country papers in Missouri. In one of these, published in the Caucasian, Mr. Greeley referred, in the most flattering terms, to Gov. Brown, and, if we are not mistaken, prophecied the Presidency for him, or words to that effect. Last night B. Gratz Brown and a member or two of the Blair family arrived in this city. They came on the pretext that there was a trouble in the Missouri delegation, such that their presence was required, and it was carefully given out that there was a combination looking to the nomination of Trumbull, and that Brown and Blair were called here to work it up. The true explanation is, that the gentlemen whose late distinguished arrival we celebrate, are here to turn over Brown's strength to Greeley, and with the aid of the South nominate him. Brown consenting to take the second place. Of course the Blairs should show their hand in this Convention, and these are their cards. If we may be permitted to change the figure at once—this is the Blair bomb-shell."

There was an insinuation here that the combination had been long contemplated as a political possibility, which may not have been fully justified by the facts cited, but it was significant as showing the temper of the Adams interest for the moment.

THE BALLOTING.

With that interest in this mood, the balloting for a Presidential candidate began, and with the exception that Greeley, as a first result of the Blair movement, picked up a few more votes than had been anticipated, the first ballot showed almost the precise result which had been predicted in the Times dispatches, the vote of Adams being 203, Greeley 147, Trumbull 108, Brown 92, Davis 92½, and Curtin 62. Right here comes the first and most important development of the plan to carry the Convention by storm. B. Gratz Brown for the first time appeared in the Convention, and without allowing Schurz to announce the result of the ballot, ascended the platform, and made his speech of declination as a candidate for the Presidency, which he concluded by saying:

> "I therefore, after tendering to you, gentlemen, my thanks for the compliment which you have given me, desire to say in brief that I came to this Convention with no personal end; that I am animated sincerely and solely by the desire of victory in this great contest, and that I want the man nominated who will carry the largest Republican vote in this nation, in defiance of the regular Grant organization, and that, in my judgment, that man is Horace Greeley."

It must be remembered that no formal presentation of candidates had been made, and that this was the first commendation of any one of them which had been made in the Convention publicly. As to the effect, I extract from the regular Press report:

> "Tremendous cheers and some hisses, followed by renewed cheering; the hisses were continued to an unusual length, when some one called for three cheers for Greeley, which were given with considerable hallooing and waving of hats."

In the confusion, several changes of votes were announced, some being to Trumbull and others to Greeley, the first result of the Blair-Brown trick being to give to both a fictitious strength. Then followed the retirement of the Missouri and Pennsylvania delegations for consultation, after the latter had withdrawn Curtin as the second scene in the programme, and the indignant protest of Schurz before the Missourians against the consummation of the bargain. When the second ballot was taken after these delegations had returned, the result was not entirely satisfactory to the Blair-Brown ring, which had taken the precaution to have Alabama and Arkansas lead off solid for Greeley, for, at its conclusion, their candidate had only 245 to 243 for Adams. The third ballot was worse, for Adams had 264, and Greeley only 258. The fourth ballot showed Adams 279, and Greeley but 251, an absolute loss of seven for Greeley, while Adams had gained fifteen. There was encouragement for the friends of Adams in these figures, but they got absolute confidence from the fifth ballot, which gave Adams 309, and Greeley 258, leaving Adams only 49 votes short of a nomination, while Greeley lacked precisely 100. This untoward result for the Greeleyites was due to the fact that Missouri and Pennsylvania had not been delivered as per contract, and it seemed that the Blair-Brown plan was a failure. But on the next ballot those in the Greeley-Brown arrangement showed how completely they were masters of the art of political trickery. Alabama and Arkansas led off solid as before for Greeley, and Georgia going the same way, a storm of yells broke out from the Greeleyites that lasted several minutes, and only spent itself when it was supposed the strength of Adams had been utterly broken. The provocation for this enthusiasm was a gain of two votes, for Georgia had given Greeley all but two on the second, third, fourth and fifth ballots. Every vote for Greeley, from this point to the close of the call, was received with the same wild yells, but all to no purpose, as the tallies kept showed that the vote stood—Greeley 324, Adams 321, and the remainder scattering. No unprejudiced observer of the scene doubted for a moment that, had this ballot been allowed to proceed in an orderly manner, that Adams would have been nominated by a large majority; no such observer doubts now that if such a ballot had been subsequently permitted, the undoubted preference of the Convention would have found expression in the nomination of Mr. Adams. But no such ballot was permitted, nor was the result of the sixth ballot allowed to be announced. The indescribable confusion was kept up, and in the midst of it men claiming to be spokesmen for delegations were announcing changes to Greeley. That many of these changes were unauthorized seemed apparent, and one or more of the efforts to cast the vote of States solid for Greeley, as notably in the case of Illinois, were frustrated by the accident of some of the delegates having voice enough to make their protests heard above the din. When, at last, all these supposed changes had been driven in upon the Secretaries by the storm of yells, Greeley had 482 and Adams 187. Taking all these facts into consideration, and bearing in mind that just at the critical moment Pennsylvania wheeled around and gave Greeley fifty votes, and it does not seem difficult to recognize the handiwork of masters in political trickery. Precisely such a game as this was played in the National Democratic Convention of 1868, when Horatio Seymour was yelled into the nomination in spite of the Convention. There is just one more important fact. Gratz Brown was nominated for Vice-President by the vote of the same States which nominated Mr. Greeley for President, by which I mean that the bulk of the vote in each case had the same origin, and not that it was precisely identical.

There is no evidence that either Mr. Greeley or his more immediate personal supporters had any lot in the scandal by which his nomination was obtained. On the contrary the weight of evidence is that they had not, but that the nomination was the work of jobbery lies too palpably on the surface of events to be seriously denied. Yet it is denied, and the nomination being already claimed as a spontaneous outburst of the popular preference, this seggregation of salient facts has been necessary. Yet it could have been profitably omitted but for that other claim that this Convention was wholly free from those malign influences which have dominated party convention. It has been boasted that Mr. Greeley was pushed through the Cincinnati Convention in the teeth of the politicians, when in fact he was plainly pulled through by the teeth of those indispensable tools of Presidential aspirants.

At the expiration of the morning hour, the Post-office Appropriation bill came up as unfinished business, the pending question being on the amendment increasing the subsidy for the mail-service with Brazil to $450,000, and providing for semi-monthly service.

On motion of Mr. Ferry, of Michigan, the amount was reduced to $800,000.

Mr. Windom then stated that the service could not be performed for that sum, and asked and obtained leave to withdraw the amendment offered by the Committee, so as to leave the item as it came from the House.

Mr. Cole offered an amendment to the bill appropriating $425,000 per annum, for ten years, for mail service between San Francisco and Australia, but on motion of Mr. Chandler, it was laid on the table.

The bill having been considered in Committee of the Whole, it was reported to the Senate, and the Senate then went into Executive Session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Under the call of States a large number of bills of no general interest was introduced and referred, the reading of many of them, as usual, being asked for to consume the morning hour to prevent action on Mr. Hooper's Supplementary Civil Service bill.

PROPOSITION TO AMEND THE RULES.

Mr. Dawes moved to suspend the rules and adopt a rule making it in order on the consideration of the Tariff bill, to treat as single paragraphs the various items relating to iron, steel, copper, wool and woolens, and manufactures of cotton, so that a substitute might be offered relating to each of these subjects as a whole. After explanation by Mr. Dawes, and opposition by Messrs. Cox, Brooks of New-York, Kerr and Banks as a "log-rolling" proposition, the rules were not suspended, the vote being yeas 65, nays 121.

SUPERVISORS OF ELECTION.

Mr. Ely introduced a bill to add to the United States Election law a provision that the list of Supervisors of Elections shall be submitted to the Representative in Congress from the district, who shall have the right of peremptory challenge. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS AT FALL RIVER, MASS.

Mr. Tyner, from the Committee on Public Buildings, reported a bill appropriating $200,000 for a site and building for a post-office and custom-house building at Fall River, Mass. Passed.

MARSHAL'S FEES IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Mr. Peters, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill to allow the United States Marshal for South Carolina the gross amount of fees and costs taxable by law during the four months from September last. Passed.

PAYING FOR A CONTEST.

A resolution to pay to the defeated contestant for the seat of Rogers, of North Carolina, $1,500, was reported from the Committee on Elections, and adopted.

A PRETENSE OF PRIVILEGE.

Mr. Wood, rising to a question of privilege, stated that on Friday last there was a meeting of the Committee on Foreign Affairs called to convene at the State Department on Saturday; that that meeting had been called by the President of the United States by notes issued to the Republican members of the Committee, signed by Gen. Babcock, the President's Secretary. His point was that himself and other Democratic members of that Committee, which in its very nature was a non-partisan committee, were excluded from that meeting, which exclusion he considered an invasion of their rights, against which invasion he protested, and called the attention of the House and of the country to that most extraordinary proceeding on the part of the Chief Executive.

Mr. Banks, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, remarked that the statement made by Mr. Wood did not present a question of privilege.

The Speaker coincided with that view. He saw nothing in the statement which presented any question of privilege, except it should be that the President had no right to consult privately any members of the House whom he chose to consult.

Mr. Banks said that Mr. Wood was mistaken in the statement he made. There had been no session of the Committee of Foreign Affairs at the State Department, or anywhere else except in its own committee-room.

DEBT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

On motion of Mr. Poland, the Senate bill to fund certain liabilities of the City of Washington, existing on the 1st of June, 1871, and to limit the debt and taxation of the District of Columbia, was taken up and passed.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The House then proceeded to vote on the Senate amendments to the Deficiency bill.

The amendment to pay mileage to Senators for the Executive Session convened by proclamation of the President on the 10th of May, 1871, was nonconcurred in.

The amendment in regard to the eight-hours' work by Government employes being paid as a full day's work was, after a long discussion, agreed to, and a proposition by Mr. Farnsworth to add twenty per cent. to the pay of men who had worked ten hours was rejected, when, without finishing the amendment, the House at 5 o'clock adjourned.

MONDAY, May 6—P. M.

The unsettled news in regard to the Washington Treaty this morning caused the sales of Gold to advance from 113¾ ₱ cent., as quoted on Saturday night, to 113½@113¾@114 ₱ cent., the price closing at the highest point. The Public Funds advanced in about the same proportion, which is at least fair proof that no very serious impression is made on the market, either at home or abroad, as to the danger of lasting trouble on the Treaty affair. The Foreign Exchanges are firm at 109¾ ₱ cent. on London, but as the belief is not general among the Importers that the advance in Gold will be maintained, there is neither eagerness to buy Exchange or to put up Gold Coin for shipment. It is probable, however, if the diplomatic difficulty should not have a more favorable turn before the close of the week, the shipments will be increased. In regard to the 5-20s advertised to be purchased to the extent of $2,000,000 for the Sinking Fund on Wednesday, the prospect is that of that whole sum in registered and other 5-20s, not dealt in abroad, at or below the price of Gold last week, less than half the amount was offered on any terms.

In Money affairs there was nothing new until near the close of Bank hours, when some of the Brokers paid a small consideration over 7 ₱ cent. to have their Stocks carried over until to-morrow. Early in the forenoon business was done at both 6 and 7 ₱ cent. interest.

There was a heavy breakdown in the Stock Exchange speculation, incident to enormous sales at both Boards of the Exchange, and continued pressure to sell at falling rates in the Hall of the Exchange in the afternoon. The registered sales, it will be noted, were enormous in amount on most of the New-York and Western Roads, and on Pacific Mail and Western Telegraph. The leading Bulls in Pacific Mail appeared to surrender the market to its general downward course, and the holders of Rock Island, North-West, Lake Shore and New-York Central submitted to large sacrifices as compared with Saturday, while the three lighter Stocks, Ohios, C., C. and Indiana Central, and Union Pacific were knocked about at a lively rate, and in very large lines, the ultimate decline in Ohios being 2¾; Union Pacific, 2¼; and C., C. and I. C., 4 ₱ cent. At the very close the prices continued depressed, but report said that new and strong buyers (including some of the Bearish speculators) were picking up Stocks in the Hall of the Exchange, as they had previously been buyers near the close of the Second regular Board. The following quotations were made at the shutting up of the Exchange Hall at 5 o'clock P. M.:

The Washington telegrams to the Stock and Banking Houses, today, in reply to inquiries as to the status of the Treaty question, were mostly to the effect that nothing serious was apprehended in Administration quarters; in other words, we should say that the admitted hitch in the efforts of last week, by Cable correspondence, to compose the question of incidental damages, is not likely to break up the Treaty. This expectation is partially borne out by the postponement, this evening, in the House of Lords, of the hostile motion of Earl Russell. That mistakes have been made in the conduct of the Cable correspondence of last week is more than probable, and the fault may be on both sides, though, it is hoped, not too late to be corrected. Neither the British nor American Funds suffered very serious depression in London. The Liverpool Cotton market was weaker.

At the recent annual election of the stockholders of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway Company, held at Cleveland, the following directors were chosen:

Directors—Horace F. Clark, New-York; James H. Banker, New-York; Augustus Schell, New-York; Azariah Boody, New-York; William Williams, Buffalo, N. Y.; Henry B. Payne, Cleveland, Ohio; Amasa Stone, Jr., Stillman Witt, Cleveland, Ohio; William L. Scott, Charles M. Reed, John A. Tracy, Erie, Penn.; Albert Keep, Chicago, Ill.; William D. Bishop, Bridgeport, Conn. At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were chosen: President, Horace F. Clark; Vice-President, Augustus Schell; Treasurer, James H. Banker, New-York; Secretary and Assistant Treasurer, George B. Ely; Auditor, C. P. Leland; General Manager, J. H. Devereux; General Superintendent, Charles Paine, Cleveland, Ohio.

We are requested to say that the late Coleman T. Robinson was not a member of the Stock Exchange firm of Messrs. Robinson, Chase & Co. With his father, Mr. Alanson Robinson, (deceased,) he was a partner in the old firm of Robinson, Cox & Co. At the time of his death he was a member of the Gold Room, as well as of the Stock Exchange, and appropriate notice was taken of his sudden decease in both associations. He was quite a young man and of large wealth.

The earnings for April on the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway Company were, for 1872, $102,191; for 1871, $74,717. Increase, $27,473.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

We are selling at par and accrued interest, and, after thorough investigation, recommend as a safe and profitable investment, the First Mortgage 7-30 Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad. At the present gold premium they yield 8¼ per cent. interest—over one-third more than United States 5-20s. Their elements of strength and safety are the following:

1. They are the standard obligation of a strong corporation, which represents in its Shareholders and Managers large capital and railroad experience, and is engaged in prosecuting a business enterprise whose great usefulness and solid success are not matters of doubt.

2. They are a first mortgage on the Road, its Right of Way, Rolling Stock, Telegraph Line, Equipments and Franchises.

3. They are a first lien upon the Traffic or Net Earnings of the Road. The Net Receipts of the first transcontinental railroad, in the second year after completion, and mainly from Local Business, were equal to nine per cent. on the total estimated cost of the Northern Pacific Road.

4. They are a First and Only mortgage on a Government Grant of Land, which consists of 12,800 acres for each mile of Road through the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and 25,600 acres per mile through the Territories of Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Washington. In average fertility of soil, healthfulness and mildness of climate, diversity and extent of resources, the belt of country comprising this grant is such as to render the lands very valuable, and insure their speedy sale and cultivation. Sold at the average price realized by other land-grant roads, the real estate endowment of the Northern Pacific Company will produce more than three times the issue of bonds per mile.

This Company is now offering for sale to settlers and colonies Three Million Acres of its Lands in Minnesota, and a large area on the Pacific coast will soon be placed on the market. Many thousand acres have already been sold. The proceeds of land sales constitute a SINKING FUND for the retirement of the First Mortgage Bonds, and the bonds are at all times convertible at 1.10 into the Company's lands at market prices.

The Pay of the Court Stenographers—The Board of Audit to be Attached for Contempt.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, before Judge Ingraham, Mr. Abraham R. Lawrence moved for an attachment against the Board of Audit, for failing to obey the order of mandamus directing them to make appropriation for the payment of the stenographers of the State Courts.

Mr. Strahan, who appeared on behalf of the Board, and in response to the call of defendants, asked for further time to make a return to the writ, stating that some legislation was now in progress which would have the effect of placing this whole matter in the hands of the Controller.

Mr. Lawrence opposed the granting of further time. The Board, he said, had treated the order of the Court with silent contempt, and now neglects to give any satisfactory reason for their failure to appropriate for the payment of his clients' claims.

Mr. Strahan urged that the matter be allowed to stand over at least until today before issuing attachments.

Judge Ingraham said he would permit the matter to stand over until 10 o'clock A. M. today.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The following among other opinions was delivered in the Supreme Court yesterday:

In the case of Newman et al. vs The Prussian bark Krepel.—In an action to enforce claims for seamen's wages, in which a motion was recently made for a mandamus to Circuit Judge Woodruff, of the Southern District of New-York, to compel him to entertain and hear an appeal from a decree of Judge Benedict. The Court now held that there was no authority for the writ, and it is said that power is given to this Court, under the writ of errors of appeal to affirm or reverse the judgment or decree of the Circuit Court, and in certain cases to render such judgment or decree as the Circuit Court should have rendered or passed, but no such power is given under a writ of mandamus, nor is it for the superior tribunal, under such a writ, to examine the judgment or decree of the subordinate Court. Such a writ cannot perform the functions of an appeal or writ of error, as the Superior Court will not in any case direct the Judge of the subordinate Court what judgment or decree to enter in the case, as the writ does not vest in the superior Court any power to give any such direction, or to interfere in any manner with the judicial discretion and judgment of the subordinate Court. Rule discharged and motion denied. Mr. Justice Clifford delivered the opinion. A number of important cases go over to the Fall session of the Court for decision.

The Court stands adjourned to Oct. 28.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART I.—MAY 6.

Before Judge Van Brunt and a Jury.

THE MYSTERIES OF LOTTERIES—A PATRON WANTS HIS MONEY BACK.

William S. Montgomery vs. Z. E. Simmons et al.—This was an action to recover $4,537 50, being double the amount of a certificate of a share and interest in the Kentucky State Lottery, which the plaintiff alleged he purchased from the defendants through one George E. Myers, who was claimed to be their agent. On the trial Mr. Myers was sworn as a witness, and testified that on July 8, 1868, he handed to Mr. Simmons a sealed envelope containing a paper marked, "Kentucky Ex., July 8, '68, from 38 to 1 all 1, $5,000," with $2,968 75 in money. The plaintiff's counsel asked the witness to explain what that paper meant. The defendant's counsel objected to this, and claimed that the allegations of the complaint were not sustained. Defendant's counsel subsequently moved for a non-suit, which was granted by the Court.

Thomas Sadler and Mr. Lovegrove for plaintiff; John Graham and George Owen for defendant.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—MAY 6.

Before Judge Ingraham.

WHAT IS NOT VAGRANCY.

In re James McGrath.—The relator is a lad under sixteen, who was committed to the House of Refuge on conviction of vagrancy. The commitment recited on its face that the prisoner was an "idle, bad, disobedient boy, a truant and a wanderer abroad." These faults, although aggravated, the Court held not to constitute vagrancy within the meaning of the statute. The boy was therefore discharged.

The Commissioner's Estimate.

Commissioner VAN VORT has addressed the following communication to Controller GREEN:

COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE, No. 237 Broadway.
To the Department of Finance of the City of New-York:

This Department, in acknowledging the receipt of the circular of the 13th ult., requesting a revision of the estimate made in response to that of the 6th of December, 1871, and showing such reductions as can be made in the expenditure of this Department for the remainder of the year 1872, from May 1 to Dec. 31 of the current year, I respectfully transmit the inclosed estimate. Such reduction as economy and safety to the interests of the City would permit, in the judgment of the Department, has been made.

The amount of reduction over the estimate for the entire year as in accordance with the previous estimate, is $236,578 83. This is in consequence of a more thorough and complete examination of the full workings of the Department, the reduction of its force, and the economy of its workings.

Respectfully, GEORGE M. VAN NORT,
Commissioner of Public Works.

The Road runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, and is the Eastern link in the new AIR LINE FROM BUFFALO TO CHICAGO, and has been under construction for about two years past by railroad men who have seen the necessity for a STEEL RAIL, LOW GRADE SHORT ROUTE between the great railroad systems which diverge from Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo.

Among the builders of the road, by whose cash subscriptions 220 miles (out of 290) have already been graded, bridged and made ready for the superstructure, a large part of the steel rails bought, all of the materials for the stations, and a part of the equipment purchased, are:

MILTON COURTRIGHT, JOHN F. TRACY, DAVID DOWS, WM. L. SCOTT, HENRY FARNHAM, R. A. FORSYTH, HENRY H. PORTER, JOHN M. BURKE, M. L. SYKES, JR., B. F. ALLEN, all directors, either in the Chicago and North-west, or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; GEO. OPDYKE, of the Midland Road; JOHN B. ALLEN, SIDNEY DILLON, DANIEL DREW, J. S. CASEMENT, J. & J. CASEY, O. S. CHAPMAN, JOHN ROSS, DAVID STEWART, and F. H. WINSTON.

THE ROAD will be

33 MILES SHORTER THAN ANY OTHER ROAD,

either BUILT or in contemplation between Buffalo and Chicago, and will also shorten the distance between Toledo and Buffalo twenty-three miles.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile--and Ninety-six per cent of the road IS STRAIGHT.

THE ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED and in running order on or before Dec. 31 of this year.

The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London or Frankfort.

We confidently recommend the bonds to all classes of investors.

MIDLAND PACIFIC RAILWAY
7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds,

Limited to $13,333 per mile and secured by a first mortgage on a completed road running from Nebraska City, on the Missouri River, to Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska. This division has been open one year, and IS NOW EARNING MORE THAN THE INTEREST ON ITS BONDS. It is the central link of a direct East and West road now being rapidly built from Urbana, Ill., through a very rich agricultural and densely populated district the greater part of the way to Grand Island, on the Union Pacific. This new line is about 610 miles long, and much needed by the section of country which it traverses, therefore receives very liberal aid toward its construction, and the completion of the entire line is anticipated within 1873. In the meantime we shall sell the bonds only on completed road. This will make the shortest route from the Atlantic to the Pacific, it being almost an air line.

We recommend these bonds as a prime security. Coupons payable Feb. and Aug. 1, free of tax, in the City of New-York. Present price 90 and accrued interest in currency.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, recognizing the claims of American industry in adjusting the sources of revenue; and it will advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. We cannot under any circumstances return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

To Advertisers.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the Times will be received at No. 54 West 32d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av.; No. 308 West 23d-st., opposite Grand Opera-house, and No. 1,241 Broadway, between 30th and 31st sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The New-York Times has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 111 Fulton-st., junction of Fulton and Main, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

A very careful retrospect of the Convention, from the pen of the correspondent who represented us at Cincinnati, will be found in another column. It tells the plain truth, without regard to persons, and is, therefore, worth reading and preserving. The opinion that Fenton tried to procure Davis' nomination is shared by our correspondent, but many will be inclined to think that Fenton was only playing a concealed game for Greeley. This theory is confirmed by the following telegram, sent some hours before the nomination, and rashly made public by the person to whom it was sent:

> My judgment at Cincinnati in regard to Greeley's nomination is hereby confirmed. I find upon my return here all the encouragement I had reason to hope for there. Let me repeat to yourself and others that his nomination will be triumphantly indorsed by the American people.
> R. E. FENTON.

It is Fenton's choice which the people are asked to ratify—and we all know that Fenton, although not good as a bed-maker, is a sincere "Reformer."

The difficulties which Controller Green finds in the way of getting the City Departments to comply with the provisions of law relating to their accounts, is the best illustration that could be had of the demoralized condition of local business. The Chairman of the Board of Excise, who lately exhibited so much promptitude in sending us a letter defending the manner of conducting business practiced by his Department, will, we trust, show equal readiness in furnishing the Controller with vouchers for that $36,274 charged as "disbursements." Controller Green is evidently somewhat averse to certifying to the accuracy of accounts of whose details he is completely ignorant. In this course he has the entire honest community of New-York at his back, and it is to be hoped that he may succeed in establishing so salutary a system in a way that will stand the test of many years. Some people complain that he is reluctant to "part with the money." That is a fault which could not be charged against Connolly. We think the people prefer to have the purse-strings held tightly at present.

Even the minority report of the House Committee on the French arms investigation, absolves the officials of the War Department from the charges so freely made in regard to misappropriation of funds received for the guns which were sold. The report adds, "there is no evidence that any person, except one, received any pay or commission from the sale, and he was not connected with any department of the Government." Had the Tribune been as anxious to see justice done to the War Department as it was to screen its friends, Manierre, Superintendent Miller et al., a refreshing display of virtuous indignation would have now been in order from that highly "independent" journal.

Our Washington correspondent gives us to understand that there is no material change in the state of the controversy with regard to the indirect claims. Our Government and that of England are still trying to arrive at a settlement—but how it is to be done is not yet clear. The muddle ought never to have occurred—but having occurred, it is pretty hard to get out of it. We can only hope for the best.

The Committee on Commerce and Navigation have presented their report to the Assembly, on the question of the extortions of the Harbor-Masters. They broadly characterize these exactions as a system of "organized piracy," and show that it is only during the last two years that this incubus on the commerce of the port has attained its present extraordinary proportions. Some of the blame of fastening these abuses is very justly laid at the door of the ship-owners and ship-agents, who have practiced the giving of bonuses to expedite the movements of their vessels, as a result of which there has grown up a system of organized black-mailing, which calls urgently for a thorough legislative reform.

How the "Reform" Convention Was Run.

In the latter part of March, Mr. Greeley made up his mind that the time had come for announcing his desertion from the Republican Party. On the Saturday preceding the Connecticut election, he issued a call for Cincinnati, early enough to circulate widely through Connecticut, and intended to influence the result in that State. In this call Mr. Greeley assigned as the cause of his "departure from the ordinary modes of party action" the "deep conviction that the organization to which he belonged was under the control of those who will use it chiefly for personal purposes, and obstruct a free expression of opinion upon the important matters laid before the people of the United States," by the original call for Cincinnati. The public were invited to come to Cincinnati, and in a "mass convention," where all would be equal, and where "free expression" would be untrammeled, to consult as to the duty of the hour.

On these pretensions and promises of Mr. Greeley, the record of the Convention which has nominated him for the Presidency affords a very striking commentary. The Convention was nothing that it pretended to be, and was everything its managers professed to abhor. It was not a mass convention; it was not held for "consultation" at all; there was no free speech, and very little speech of any kind in it; it did not even recognize the need of revenue reform; it proposed nothing regarding the reform of the civil service, and it made no proposition concerning the proper treatment of the Kuklux question. On all essential matters it prevaricated or was silent.

While it thus contradicted every promise that was made for it, it presented, in their most aggravated form, nearly all the evils it was avowedly called to combat. It was a packed Convention. The "delegates" represented, not a constituency, choosing them at home, but only the crowds the managers had brought to Cincinnati on free tickets, or who had appointed themselves to come. Nearly half the States were, by a sharp trick, made into rotten boroughs, and their delegations filled by men from other States. The Convention, thus perverted in its constitution, was manipulated throughout by the relentless employment of all the stale political devices to compel an artificial "harmony" in such bodies. Everything was cut and dried. In the organization the hand of the schemers was plain. The Chairmanship of the Convention was given to Gen. Schurz, and he was allowed to declaim eloquently for elevated action, but the price he paid for indulgence in the only "free expression" permitted in the Convention was his adherence to its final action—and the price was very high. Horace White, the free-trader, hitherto sans peur et sans reproche, of the Chicago Tribune, was made Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, in order that he might be compelled to report the wretched, cowardly compromise, which stultified all his more recent record, and made him appear curiously like either a dupe or a victim. A "Committee on Credentials" was invented. It had no excuse for existence, for there were no credentials, and could be none in the nature of the case. But it was sprung on the Convention in the midst of excitement on some other point, and hurried through with a success that must have made John Cochrane and Aleck McClure laugh in their sleeves. Once formed, it proved a famous weapon in the hands of the managers. It ruled out all but a few of Mr. Greeley's opponents in this State, and brought the machine generally into working order with great precision, and with no scruples as to decency or good faith. The way in which Mr. Mahlon Sands—a thoroughly conscientious man—and all his friends were suppressed, will not soon be forgotten.

From first to last the schemers had it their own way. Mr. Fenton led them, with an energy and tact which fully sustain his reputation. The result is shown in his exultant dispatch to Mr. Whitelaw Reid, which that gushing professor of journalism would never have published if he had asked the Senator's advice. We do not blame the worthy pair for rejoicing. Consider what has been accomplished. Mr. Greeley was not the choice of the men who met at Cincinnati. The ablest and best of them distrusted him, and some of them displayed a feeling little short of contempt for him. He had no "claims." His record was directly opposed to nearly every profession of the sincere men in the Convention. He has always fought revenue reform. His views of civil service reform are that the "outs" ought to be put in. They are illustrated by his Tammany associations, and his frank admissions that the motive of the Fenton fight in this State is merely greed for office. His statesmanship was a matter for sneers. His ideas were shared by no one. His popularity was a subject for broad jokes. Yet he was made the candidate of the Convention. Well might Mr. Fenton slip back to Washington between two days, conscious that this "free," "spontaneous," "reform" Convention was "fixed."

We may form some idea of the effectiveness of this unscrupulous manipulation of the Convention, from the wrath of those who were betrayed. Judge Hoadley has expressed himself on the subject. He says the thing was a "fraud." He denounces it as a "corrupt alliance of Tammany and Frank Blair,"—Tammany, our readers will observe, being represented by Messrs. Fenton and Greeley and Blair by Gov. Brown. He says the success of the ticket "means nothing else than an organized raid of all the corrupt men now out of office on the Treasury." The Judge was present throughout the Convention, and was an active member of it, though John Cochrane's gag rule kept him from talking much in the open body. He knows what he is talking about. What do the men who really desire reform, and sought it at Cincinnati, think of the prospect?

At Last.

The Street-cleaning Commission met yesterday, and at last gave some reason for the hope that the end of the present disgraceful reign of Brown is at hand. Mr. Green offered a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing him to submit to counsel the question whether the present contract to clean the streets had been carried out. This question will be submitted to the Commission next Thursday, and there can be no reasonable doubt as to what the answer will be. Never was a contract more openly and flagrantly violated than that by which Brown undertook to clean the streets. It will undoubtedly be the opinion of the counsel consulted that this broken contract is at an end. Mr. Green will then have no further excuse for paying Brown the money of which taxpayers are robbed, and the Street Commission can make a new contract with some decent and responsible person.

A further resolution embodying the suggestion of the Times, that the Board of Health at once proceed to remove the accumulated filth of the Winter, as a sanitary measure, was unfortunately laid on the table. Had it been passed, as it should have been, we should have been saved the prolongation of our discomfort and danger, which is inevitable if we have to wait for the slow relief to be afforded by the new contractor, whom the Street Commission may authorize to do the work that Brown has neglected. There should be no delay in this matter. Every day that the filth of the streets lies festering under the warm sun of this sudden Spring increases the danger of an epidemic. It must not be forgotten that the cholera was marching straight upon us last Summer, and that its advanced skirmishers, so to speak, actually reached this City. The cold weather fortunately saved us for the time, but it is well known that the cholera-germs are simply dormant in Winter, and will revive with the approach of hot weather. It is probable that the seeds of cholera are with us now, and all that is needed to bring them into terrible vitality is the heat of July, and a continuance of the present condition of the streets. Should this City be promptly cleaned and kept clean, the pestilence would probably be arrested. Should the work of cleaning be delayed too long, there is every reason to believe that the Summer would bring us the scourge that has more than once already devastated this City.

Putting aside the question of an impending epidemic, the enormous discomfort which we have latterly suffered from the mud and dust is a sufficient reason for prompt action. Mr. Green has at last decided that something must be done in behalf of the victims of Brown, and it is to his energy and perseverance that we look to insure action on the part of that Commission. The matter is now postponed until Thursday. When that day comes let there be no further delay. On Thursday the Commission can kick Brown out of his office, and adopt immediate measures for the cleansing of the streets. A contract can be signed on Saturday, and this work begun on Monday. Every day's delay after that time will be laid at the door of the Commission, and the Commissioners will earn a share of the indignation now so freely lavished upon contractor Brown.

The True Question of the Hour in France.

In the estimation of M. Thiers and of the mere politicians of France, the reorganization of the army is synonymous with the reorganization of the country. There is, however, an influential, if not a very large, class in French society which sees in the illiteracy of the nation a more formidable obstacle to its future development, and a greater blot on its present prestige than the want of a huge and well-disciplined army. The arrangements are pretty nearly complete for putting France in possession of a million and a half of armed men, backed by four cannon for every thousand soldiers; but in sending the school-master abroad among the ignorant masses of France, very little indeed has been done. In a recent speech by M. Guizot, before the society for the encouragement of primary education among the French Protestants, the subject of the educational needs of France was very eloquently, if not very satisfactorily, treated. In the opinion of M. Guizot, the three questions to be decided before devising a national scheme of education are, should primary instruction be compulsory, should it be absolutely gratuitous, and should it be purely secular or strictly religious? On the compulsory question, a very curious citation is made. The States-General of Orleans decided, as early as 1560, that the nobles should see that the clergy should raise a tax from their ecclesiastical revenues, for the purpose of paying school-masters in all towns and villages, to instruct the children of the poor parents of the province "in the Christian religion, and other necessary branches of knowledge, as well as in good manners." The Church of the sixteenth century evidently received this request in a way pretty nearly akin to that in which the Regent Murray received a similar demand by John Knox. Whether they esteemed it merely a "devout imagination" or not, they certainly failed to comply with it.

To the compulsory system, as practiced in Germany and Switzerland, M. Guizot cannot reconcile himself, and therein he differs from most of the French educational reformers of the present day. Domiciliary searches, public trials, and legal penalties he believes may safely be deferred until other means are tried to overcome the existing indifference, in France, to primary education. On the question of gratuitous instruction, M. Guizot is equally behind his less famous fellow-workers. He employs the specious argument that an absolute and legal right on the part of the people to gratuitous education, does not rest on a more logical basis than the socialist doctrine of the right of every citizen to be furnished with work and wages by the State. He estimates that free national schools would cost France six millions of dollars a year. We should be disposed to consider this cheap, and considering the readiness with which ninety millions is voted to sustain an army of bloated proportions, the force of the pecuniary argument is somewhat hard to discover. A better reason against the national Treasury being saddled with this additional expense is found in the fact that, even now, the Communal schools furnish education free to those children whose parents are designated by the municipal councils as too poor to pay for it. Were Frenchmen of all shades of opinion not so inveterately wedded to a highly centralized and bureaucratic system of government, they could construct, as the English people have done, on such a basis as this, a very fair scheme of national education. Give the municipal and departmental councils, or bodies similarly elected, the power and the responsibility of providing for public schools in their several localities, and of levying local rates for their support, and the question would soon receive a more satisfactory adjustment than it is likely to receive at the hands of the Central Government.

On the religious question M. Guizot has some very eloquent things to say, but very little that is practical. The State he declares to be purely secular in its character, and to have no concern with things spiritual; but he does not think that it is at liberty to ignore the place of religion in education. It is not the place of the secular power to teach religion, but, according to M. Guizot, it is its duty to summon the ministers of religion, the depositaries of religious belief—priests, pastors or parents—to teach religion in the public schools founded and maintained by the State. Thus, he thinks, national education would be religious without ceasing to be free. Like a good many French doctrines, this sounds rather better than it would be likely to work. When so great a man as M. Guizot thus stands confused on the threshold of great questions, which most other free countries have, long ago, solved, it shows not only that there is an immense educational work still to be done in France, but it shows that very formidable difficulties stand in the way of doing it.

Cincinnatus.

Mr. Greeley is determined to do his best to win the vote of the American farmer. Of all the various characters which he assumes, he prefers just at present to play that of the honest, simple, hard-working rustic. No sooner did he receive the news of his nomination than he fled to Chappaqua, and there addicted himself with unusual violence to those destructive practices which he has so long commended to ignorant agriculturists. He knew that he would receive letters, messages, and visitors, but he declined to receive them in his editorial office, or in the public privacy of his club. He could not expect the rural voter to grow enthusiastic over the mental picture of Greeley writing on both sides of the tariff question, or mingling in the society of those gentlemen at the Union League Club House, whom he once courteously characterized as blockheads. Knowing that his movements just at present would be sure to be made public in the Tammany journals that now pretend to support him, he decided at once that he would betake himself to his country-seat, and there pose as a tiller of the soil. Two or three Tammany correspondents received hints as to his intentions, and went with him to describe the ex-partner of Tweed in his rural home.

Arrived at Chappaqua, he immediately threw aside his coat, and shouldering his ax, proceeded to the woods. Here he chopped a few pieces of wood, and received numbers of visitors. It is reported that the exultant but ill-judged manner in which the simple candidate handled his ax seriously endangered the safety of the bystanders. Of this, however, he took but little heed, and only interrupted his athletic sport to open and read his numerous letters.

There is a wonderful wealth of pretty sentiments and beautiful rhetoric in those letters. A Pittsburg man writes: "I ratify to the end"—which sentiment is perhaps a trifle obscure in expression, though it really leaves no doubt of the writer's conviction that the end of Mr. Greeley is rapidly approaching. Another person proclaims that he may be looked for "in the last ditch," and thus pleasantly recalls to Mr. Greeley's memory the final end of the noisy boastings of his rebel friends. Why Mr. Niles should wish to be looked for in a ditch is a mystery known only to himself. Has he a constitutional or acquired tendency to roll in ditches? From Albany, a Liberal Republican who signs his message only with his initials, repeats the prayer, "Now let thy servant depart in peace"—adding, however, "but not till after the election," thereby showing his conviction that the only thing which will be left to Greeley's supporters after next November will be to retire from this unappreciative world. A business firm in Memphis assert that Mr. Greeley will be the next President, but the mystic words, "Tennessee O. K.," with which the message ends, induces the reader to believe that the particular brand of whisky, thus mentioned, has had some share in inspiring their hopes of Mr. Greeley's success. Whether the wild Virginian who telegraphs, "You have never heard of me before and never will again," means to hint at an intention to commit suicide at once is not clear, and neither, for that matter, is the assertion of another writer, that he "cannot contain himself." A high degree of intelligence can, however, be hardly expected from the person who deliberately writes to congratulate Mr. Greeley upon having been made the laughing-stock of the nation.

But there is no doubt that the great wood-chopper enjoyed his letters. He is now to play the parts of simple farmer and unsophisticated politician for some months to come. He paused in his toil to read his letters—doubtless with an affectation of slowness and an occasional audible spelling of a word, in order to more perfectly represent the agricultural part which he was playing. No more messages reaching him, he finally ceased his work of woodland destruction, and after drinking deeply from a neighboring spring, returned home and feasted gaily on the cheering chicken pot-pie, both chickens and dough having been raised by himself. It is impossible to refrain from admiration at this truly beautiful picture of rural simplicity, and there can be no doubt that it will have an immense effect in adding to the enormous vote upon which Mr. Greeley so confidently counts.

Two Picture Sales.

At very nearly the same time, there died, in England and America, two men, who, not dissimilar in some other respects, were notable alike for a love of art, and who left to be disposed of at their deaths two of the largest private collections of pictures ever sold at public auction. Mr. Le Grand Lockwood and Mr. Joseph Gillott were both architects of their own fortunes, and each by a career of honest industry achieved the means of stocking his picture-gallery with many of the best-known works of the foremost modern masters. In Mr. Lockwood's collection such names as Verbeckhoeven, Kraus, Schenbach, Van Schendel, Schrader, with the best of the American artists, were well represented. In Mr. Gillott's, the bewildered connoisseur had to choose between masterpieces of Turner, Etty, Muller, Webster and David Cook, by the score. But the fates of the two collections were curiously unequal.

While Mr. Lockwood's collection—of the two perhaps originally the more expensive—brought under the hammer prices in the aggregate far below the original cost, Mr. Gillott's was sold at an enormous advance, amounting, it is said, in many cases, to ten or twenty times the sums he paid. Bierstadt's "Domes of the Yosemite," the pride of the Lockwood gallery, bought for $25,000, was bid off for the comparatively paltry sum of $5,100—to the minds of some harsh critics a much closer approximation to its true value. On the other hand, Webster's "Roast Pig," a picture painted in commission for the great pen-maker, for 700 guineas, was sold for 3,550 guineas—more than five times its original cost, or nearly $20,000. Mr. Lockwood's pictures were said to have cost originally some $300,000. They brought a trifle over $70,000. Two days' sale of the Gillott collection brought more than as many pounds, or nearly $365,000. On the first day, for eighty-nine pictures, £30,000 was bid, an average of over $1,600 a picture.

Nor was the Webster spoken of exceptional in its price. A little water-color by David Cook fetched close on £4,000, nearly as much as Mr. Lockwood paid for the acre or so of painted canvas in the "Domes of the Yosemite." Four other water-colors by the same master brought about 6,000 guineas. Webster's "Traveling Jeweler" was sold after a spirited competition for 3,550 guineas; Miller's "Chess Players" for 3,950. A landscape by Linwell, "The Woodlands," brought 2,500 guineas, and four small Turners realized nearly £7,000. Another of Miller's pictures, the "Bay of Naples," was knocked down for 2,700 guineas, and bids of 1,000, 1,500, 1,700 guineas were too common to mention. And this, be it remembered, for only a portion of this superb collection.

It is easy to generalize too hastily on this singular disparity. Here were two men, each of immense fortune, each with a taste for pictures, and each bent on having the finest gallery that money could supply. Perhaps each invested about the same amount in gratifying his taste. Mr. Gillott, from his intimacy with many of the greatest English painters, Turner and Etty, David Cox and William Hurst, had better facilities than most amateurs for securing choice specimens. Yet the investment of one is found to increase in value by a very large percentage, while that of the other proportionately deteriorated. The explanation may be traced to the superior judgment of the original buyer, or to a more fervent present enthusiasm of the English over the American art public. Perhaps the truth lies between these extremes. The fame of Mr. Gillott's collection undoubtedly did much to enhance its value, and to lend spirit to the competition for the masterpieces. With as little doubt its owner's choice was guided by unusual tact, his own or another's. But we are far from willing to admit that a really good picture will meet from American taste or American liberality a reception less warm or discriminating than elsewhere. The welcome truth that the Gillott sale—and, perhaps, in its own way, the Lockwood sale also—enforces, will, however, be gladly hailed by artists and art-lovers everywhere. Art cannot thrive without material encouragement, and a very perceptible, if not a very exalted impulse to its development, must come from the discovery that a good picture is as safe and sure an investment, for merely mercenary purposes, as stock, or dry goods, or real estate.

Niblo's Garden.

The burning of Niblo's Theatre will be generally regretted, except, perhaps, by Mr. Stokes, who had just reason to complain of the last play represented at that house. So many pleasant associations are connected with the place that nearly every one felt a personal interest in the airy, convenient auditorium, where he had been so often amused and entertained. Opera, concert, tragedy, comedy, melodrama, spectacle and ballet, have all been witnessed and enjoyed to a greater or less extent at this noble theatre. It was once the home of the Philharmonic Society; Bosio and Sontag, Salvi and Badiali have sung at Niblo's. Forrest and Fechter, Hackett and Sothern, have played there. Men grown gray in the toil of business and professional life remembered how, as children, they laughed at the Ravels when "Mazulm" was a new pantomime, and when to see the Ravels at Niblo's Garden was regarded by decorous people as something very different from an ordinary visit to the theatre. Though the morality and art of the "Black Crook" and the other spectacles which have latterly made Niblo's famous may be doubted, no one denies that in lavish splendor of scenery and accessories they surpassed anything that had preceded them on the American stage.

Of the origin of the fire nothing is yet certainly known. Like the majority of fires in play-houses, it broke out while no performance was in progress. It is a curious fact, that though theatres have repeatedly been burned, no fire ever originated on the stage of a theatre while an audience was present, and destroyed the building before the audience had dispersed. Where theatres have been burned down during a performance, the fire which consumed them has been smoldering for some hours, and when a theatre has taken fire during a performance, the spark has hid itself until the house was emptied. It is possible that the fire at Niblo's originated during the rehearsal of Sunday night, but it fortunately made no perceptible headway until the building had long been empty. Indeed, had it taken place when the house was crowded, there need have been no loss of life except from a panic. The theatre was one of the few public buildings in New-York so plentifully supplied with means of exit, that no visitor had any reason to dread the horrible possibility of being roasted. It is therefore a matter of regret that the airiest and safest theatre in the City should have been the one selected for destruction.

Doubtless there will be those who will view the destruction of Niblo's as a consequence of the alleged immorality of the ballet spectacles which have been so frequent at that house, and one of which was to be presented to the public last night. These persons, however, will be forced to ignore the fact that Barnum's Museum, the home of the "moral drama;" the Winter Garden, where Mr. Booth was presenting Shakespeare's tragedies, and the Academy of Music, consecrated to the divine art of music, have been the most noted instances in which theatres have been burned in this City during the last ten years. Whatever may be the theory as to the fitness of fire to purify the home of the "Black Crook," no one can help sympathizing with the loss and disappointment of the lessees of the building, and of the scores of theatrical people whom the calamity deprives of employment. It is pleasant to find that other managers have already tendered their houses for benefit performances in aid of the sufferers, and that Mr. A. T. Stewart, the owner of the theatre, promises that by next September a new and better Niblo's Garden shall take the place of the familiar theatre.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Methodist Book Concern muddle has again been thrust on public notice. Unfortunately, the majority of the Conference now in session appears disposed to make things rather more smooth to the defaulters of the Book Concern than is quite consistent with justice to those who have exposed them. The majority report, conceived though it is in an apologetic vein, affords ample justification of the course of Dr. Lanahan. To place a sum like $54,372 11 to account of "profit and loss for correction of errors," was probably, as Mr. Kilbreth puts it, "bungling," but in a business conducted by laymen such an entry would have been likely to receive much harsher criticism. If the Conference could only make up its mind to dispose of this interminable business without any fear of how it may look to the outer world, and with a single-minded desire to get at the whole truth, it would perform the best service that it possibly can to the body it represents.

John Morrissey, the gambler and prize-fighter, has come out strongly in favor of Greeley's candidature. Straws show which way the wind is blowing. It will be remembered that during the "Young Democracy" fight in this City, Greeley intrigued with Morrissey for the nomination for Governor. It is sometimes charged that President Grant's friends are not all that could be desired. What would "President" Greeley's be?

One of Prince Bismarck's recent inventions has been a Naval Academy at Kiel. Two of its Alumni have just been distinguishing themselves in a manner scarcely calculated to conciliate the confidence of that city. On the Emperor's birth-night these incipient Admirals were disporting themselves at a music hall, where they got quarreling with two young men, members of respectable families in the town, whereupon one of the cadets promptly proceeded to stab one of these young gentlemen. The wounded man's companion pursued the enemy, to hand him over to the police, but in a retired spot the cadet turned upon him and wounded him with his poinard. Both victims died next day. When, three years ago, Prince Bismarck's relation, the gallant young Count Eulenberg, killed a poor cook at Bonn, "all this fuss about a dead nigger" seemed to be the prevailing sentiment with the Prussian Government, but inasmuch as the victims in the present case belong to a higher class more notice may possibly be taken of their crime. The license allowed to young military and naval officers of rank has long been a sore subject with the Prussian bourgeoisie.

It may interest some of our Summer emigrants to learn that a capital system of cheap tours to the Pyrenees is now organized. Starting from Liverpool, the traveler goes by steamer to Bordeaux, and thence by railway to Pau, Bagneret de Bigorre and other towns at the foot of the Pyrenees. The charge for the whole excursion, including maintenance and vin ordinaire, on board magnificent steamers, is fifty dollars, first class. This is a good chance for the exploration of a really sublime tract of country, comparatively little known to tourists.

Each day this country becomes a greater bug-bear to the employers of labor in Europe. America is the threat on every workman's lips from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean. In Italy there is now a great cry of alarm at the exodus. The increasing tendency to emigrate shows itself most strongly in the provinces of Genoa and Turin, which many of the peasantry are leaving in the hope of bettering their condition. In the Calabrias the desire to go is even stronger. Although the price of labor has of late years been considerably raised it is still miserably low. The state of agriculture is terribly backward and the proprietors lack energy and capital to turn their land to valuable account. Did they possess these there would be ample and well-remunerated employment for the thousands now leaving the country. A good hand does not now earn more than thirty to thirty-five American cents daily, and even at that rate his work is not constant. This is only one of the many causes which make peace so essential to Italian progress and prosperity.

The Lord Chancellor of England has introduced a very important bill into the House of Lords, creating a Supreme Court of Appeal, which is intended to combine and supersede the functions both of the Privy Council and of the House of Lords. The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council was established as a Supreme Court of Appeal in certain cases some thirty years ago, and during the lives of Lord Kingsdown and one or two more great lawyers was a success, but appears since then to have waned. The House of Lords as a Court of Appeal was in reality a Bench composed of half a dozen, sometimes fewer, law Lords. Lay Lords take no part in such proceedings, being for the most part perfectly ignorant of them. The members of the now projected Court are to receive $30,000 a year. The measure seems to meet with approval.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

LAST NIGHT'S ORPHEON FESTIVAL.

A very large audience, gathered in the Academy of Music, last evening, enjoyed the performance supplied on the occasion of the seventh annual Springtide Festival of the Orpheon Choral Society. The performance included solo singing by Miss Cassie Renz and by Mr. G. C. Rockwood, piano playing by Mr. R. L. Herman, choral work by the members of the Society, and an address on "Music," written and delivered by Rev. H. W. Bellows, D. D. It was very creditable, and the labors of the chorus had results proving most clearly that the efforts of Mr. Jerome Hopkins, the founder and conductor of the Society, have been well directed, earnest and profitable.

MR. ENGEL'S MATINEE.

The third and last of Mr. Louis Engel's matinées is to be given this day at the Theatre of the Union League Club, beginning at 3½ o'clock. Appended is the programme of the occasion:

1. Cujus Animam, from the "Stabat Mater."	Rossini
2. Piano Organ—A. Soupirs et larmes; B. Soupires et Charmes	Engel
3. Garabaldi March, Echo du Coeur, (Nocturne)	Engel
4. Quartet, from "Rigoletto," (on the Piano-Organ)	Verdi
5. Engel Organ—A. Laschia ch' io Pianga	Handel
B. Gavotte	Sebastian Bach
C. "Com' è Gentil," Varié	Engel
6. Song Without Words	Mendelssohn
Miserere. (On the Piano-Organ)	Verdi
7. Let There be Light, (Creation,)	Haydn
8. Prayer of Moses, (for Organ and Piano, both instruments played with one hand,)	Rossini

These attractive selections will certainly afford pleasure to all who are so fortunate as to hear them.

Dramatic.

AFFAIRS AT WOOD'S.

The military drama called "The French Spy, or the Fall of Algiers," and familiar to all play-goers, was repeated at Wood's Museum last evening, and will be acted there for some nights, and at the matinée on Saturday next. Mlle. Marietta Ravel fills the principal part in "The French Spy," and her varied performances as a French lancer, a wild Arab boy and a French lady, endow the piece with the charm it possesses to this day for a miscellaneous audience. Mlle. Ravel needs no more detailed introduction to the frequenter of places of amusement than does the piece in which she acts. She sustained the same rôle at the Broadway Theatre about three years ago, and she still shows herself an intelligent mime and graceful dancer. To Mr. T. W. Keene, Mr. T. L. Connor and the company of the Museum are assigned the remaining characters. The attraction at the regular matinées—that of Saturday excepted—is "Ixion."

LINA EDWIN'S THEATRE.

"The Gold Demon," an extravaganza written expressly for the Chapman sisters, was produced at this establishment last evening, with the Misses Chapman and Misses Clara Fisher and Lillie Hall in the principal parts. The plot is a very simple one. The Gold Demon loses his power, and is compelled to marry in order to recover it. Hence all sorts of strange and startling adventures. The piece is carefully set, and is rich in songs, dances, "nursery rhymes" and terrific combats. Miss and Mr. Hogan, late additions to the company, we believe, appear in several performances during the evening. This week, it should be mentioned, is to be the last of the Chapman sisters' sojourn; they leave for the West to fill other engagements at its close.

OBITUARY.

John Charles Pratt, Marquis of Camden.

The announcement is made, in a telegram of yesterday, from London, of the death of the Marquis of Camden. John Charles Pratt was the oldest of eleven children of the second Marquis of Camden and Miss Murray, daughter of the Bishop of Rochester. He was born in London in 1840, and was known, until he succeeded to the Marquisate, as Lord Brecknock. In 1859, he was created honorary Master of Arts, Trinity College, Cambridge, and was appointed Ensign in the Thirty-third Kent Rifle Volunteers, and, in 1860, was made a Deputy Lieutenant of Kent. He was a member of the House of Commons for Brecknock from February, 1866, until his succession to the Marquisate, in that year, on the death of his father, and then took his seat in the House of Lords. The same year, he married Lady Clementine, youngest daughter of the Duke of Marlborough.

The Committe of Seventy.

There was a very full attendance of members at the meeting of the Committee of Seventy last evening, Hon. William F. Havemeyer presiding. The discussions were of a very interesting nature, but little was done of any special interest to the people, in whose behalf the Committee is still laboring. A committee was appointed to secure a new headquarters, in the event of inability to retain the present rooms in No. 52 Union-square.

WASHINGTON.

The Position of the Government on the Washington Treaty.

Legislation in the House—The Postal Appropriation Bill—Lawlessness in Georgia—A New Constitutional Amendment.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The country hardly needs to be reassured that the stuff which is being telegraphed from this city in regard to the treaty is mere speculation and guess-work, and that words are put into the mouths of people which they never uttered, and that invention is the staple of a certain class of correspondents in this city, who pay more attention to the stock market than they do to the facts. The situation is not materially changed, and there are no new features in it warranting any belief of new dangers. On the contrary, the position of this Government on the subject is one which, when all the correspondence is made public, will be warmly approved by the people. There is no back down, no withdrawal. There is an earnest effort to save the treaty, but there has been no suggestion or proposition from this side to settle the question outside of the Geneva Tribunal. It has been suggested to the British Government that this Government does not desire a money award for consequential damages; only a settlement of the principle involved. In return Great Britain has made a proposition involving the settlement of the question outside the tribunal, and indicating that it expects the withdrawal of the claims as a consequence. But this has been declined, because the American Cabinet has no power as has the English Cabinet to define and establish a principle of law for the observance of the two nations in the future, simply because the Senate must consent, under the Constitution, to ratify such an agreement. If the British Government should propose a new article to the treaty, to settle this question, it would be gravely considered by this Government; and, if the concession was sufficiently clear, it would doubtless be ratified. But there will be no settlement without such concession as will settle the point involved for all future time.

LEGISLATION IN THE HOUSE.

The number of bills which passed the House today, under a suspension of the rules, was much greater than their importance. At the close of an hour, Mr. GARFIELD carried a motion to go into Committee of the Whole on the amendments to the Tariff bill, and of the sixty-five amendments which the Senate attached, sixty were disposed of before the House adjourned. The direct work of the Tariff bill will begin to-morrow. Mr. DAWES today attempted to pass a resolution, allowing him or others to offer substitutes for entire sections of the majority bill, after all the amendments shall have been presented. The Democrats, who are evidently in great tribulation lest they lose the good thing they have in the bill as it stands, objected all around, and Mr. DAWES was beaten on a call of the yeas and nays. The first thing to happen, as matters now stand, is Mr. KELLEY's effort to strike out the enacting clause of the majority bill and substitute his own. Many friends have tried to dissuade him from this plan, but he insists that he has "counted noses" and that his success is assured. This remains to be seen.

THE POSTAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Senate, acting as in Committee of the Whole, today made considerable progress with the Postal Appropriation bill. Just before the Senate adjourned the bill was taken up out of Committee of the Whole and the amendments made in Committee concurred in, except that the Pacific Mail subsidy, and some of the other more important propositions, which were closely carried, were reserved for separate action. As the bill stands now the only increase of subsidy is for doubling the service to Japan, and this meets with so much favor in the Senate that it is likely to be retained. The Brazil line, which now receives $150,000 for a monthly service, applies for $450,000, to double the trips. The amount was cut down to $300,000, when the amendment was withdrawn entirely by the Post-office Committee on the ground that the line would not undertake to put on the additional steamers unless $450,000 could be had for it. The proposition to subsidize a new line of steamers to Australia with $450,000 was laid on the table. It will be renewed in the Senate, but there has been some suspicion attached to the good faith of the enterprise, and it is likely to fail. It was laid on the table by only one majority, and the contest will be renewed with zeal by those interested.

CONGRESSIONAL CONTESTED SEATS.

The House Committee on Elections today unanimously agreed to report in favor of GIDDINGS (Democrat) against CLARK, the sitting member, from the Third District of Texas; and also in favor of A. W. WALLACE, the sitting member from the Fourth South Carolina District, retaining his seat, which has been contested by MCKISSOTH.

NAVAL GAZETTE.

Lieut. F. M. SIMONDS has been ordered to the Tuscarora. Lieut. CHAS. M. ANTHONY has been detached from the Navy-yard and ordered to the Tuscarora. First Lieut. ROBT. DAVIS has been placed upon the retired list with the full rank of Captain, to date from July 9, 1866.

PROTEST AGAINST THE ADMISSION OF UTAH.

A memorial was presented in the House of Representatives today from about 3,000 citizens of Utah, protesting against the admission of that Territory into the Union as a State.

LAWLESSNESS IN GEORGIA.

A telegram was received today at the Department of Justice from the United States District-Attorney at Charleston, S. C., in which he says that a Deputy Marshal, just returned from Marietta, Ga., reports that CAPERS SCOTT, WESLEY SCOTT and WM. HARRIS, whom he had arrested on a bench-warrant issued by the Circuit Court, were forcibly taken from him by a crowd of thirty or forty men. The men arrested are duly indicted for violating the Enforcement act.

NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED.

The Senate, in Executive Session, today confirmed the following nominations: William Bertram, of Missouri, to be Consul at Montevideo; Andrew J. Evans, United States Attorney for the Western District of Texas; Thomas B. Shannon, to be Collector of Customs at San Francisco; Wm. F. De Knight, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of South Carolina; Thomas N. Lee, to be Postmaster at Hancock, Mich.; Edward J. Goodwin, to be Postmaster at Washington, La.

A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Representative POLAND today introduced an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing that no Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be chosen President or Vice-President; nor shall any Judge of any United States Court be chosen President or Vice-President within two years of the termination of his judicial office.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The House Committee on Appropriations this morning had under consideration the Senate amendments to the Deficiency Appropriation bill, and voted to recommend concurrence in the one which relates to the pay of Government workmen, and non-concurrence in the so-called "Morrill amendment," restricting the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to cases commenced within two years after the suppression of the rebellion by constantly loyal claimants.

Franz Abt.

FRANZ ABT, the composer, took his departure for Washington yesterday, and will return to the City in the latter part of the week. In Washington a concert will be given on Wednesday, under his direction, by the Washington Choral Union, the Saengerbund and the Arion Quartet Club, of that city. The Abt concert of the Liederkranz Society will come off at Steinway Hall, on the 18th inst., which will also be given under his direction. The concert to be given under ABT's direction at Philadelphia will come off on the 17th, and at Baltimore on the 12th inst.

A Merchant Charged With Defrauding the Government.

For the past three days the whole force of deputies attached to the United States Marshal's office have been actively engaged in looking for HENRY HOWARD, a merchant who, it is alleged, has been guilty of extensive frauds upon the Government in the earlier part of 1869. The warrant for his arrest was issued by Commissioner OSBORN, on a complaint made by one of Supervisor DUTCHER's assistants. It was thought that he would secretly leave for Europe on Saturday last, and the various vessels which left on that day were searched without finding him. His family took passage on the steamer Batavia, and although his name appeared on the passengers' list, he could not be found on board when the vessel left. It is believed that he took the alarm in time to evade arrest, and has escaped from the country in some other way. Great secrecy is maintained in regard to the nature of his frauds.

MR. GREELEY AND HIS SUPPORTERS.

The Brooklyn Eagle supports HORACE GREELEY's candidature, and recommends the Democrats and the people to support him also. So it did rather less than a year ago, in an article which we copy from its columns, and which is worth reading now:

"Mr. BARNUM has a standing reward for any man who will name an American office for which Hon. HORACE GREELEY has not been proposed. No man has been hardy enough to claim Mr. BARNUM's cash. The world which has seen the Indian mutiny, the rise and fall of Napoleonism, the beginning and the end of the rebellion, the dissolution of slavery, the vault of Prussia from poverty to power, and many other equally rare and wonderful events, including the discovery of the source of the Nile and the discovery of the tanner of Galena, has also seen the editor of the Tribune, the Constable of Chappaqua, the Congressman from the Tenth District, the agriculturist of Westchester, the member of the Constitutional Convention, the friend and partner and deserter and denouncer of SEWARD and WEED, the temperance orator of the meeting-houses, the Christian of the Independent, the heretic of the Golden Age, the apostle of Fourierism, the lender and loser of money, the champion swearer of the period, the head of the Tammany Republicans, the perpetual candidate for the Postmaster-Generalship, the perpetual candidate for the Senate, the perpetual candidate for the mission to England, the diplomatic backer of Colorado JEWETT and GEORGE N. SANDERS, the inciter to secession and on-to-Richmond, the historian of the American Conflict and the bailer of Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS, as well as the author of What I Know About Farming—we say the world has also seen this remarkable and multitudinous man in a condition of everlasting anguish for office. He inscribes on his banner, which in the midst of peace is a red rag, and in the midst of war a white flag, the motto of LANGDON CHEEVES: 'Office is an honor to be neither solicited nor declined.' He forgets to acknowledge his indebtedness to CHEEVES for the aphorism, but uses it with the same freedom as he does his expletives borrowed from the slums and the gutters of the Metropolis he has made fame by maligning.

And now the world which has seen so much of this inextinguishable and innumerable person, beholds in him this time an early and eager candidate for the Presidency. All he asks for is the nomination. If he can get that he regards his election as certain. The printers would all go for him, because he has pensioned off two typos who were prostrated with paralysis, brought about by reading his manuscript. The tailors would all go for him, because he never troubles them with vexatious orders. The hatters would all go for him, because each of them would ache to advertise himself by presenting him with a new hat. The butchers would all go for him, in hope of getting the $3,000 he promised long ago for an ox weighing a ton and a half. The cordwainers would all go for him, in hope of persuading him to wear twin boots or twin shoes instead of one of each as at present. The sinners would all go for him, because in case he was elected the worst of them could live in lively hope. The Christians would all go for him, in hope that prosperity would touch a heart on which adversity has exhausted itself in vain. The Irish would all go for him, in expectation of getting back some of the Slievegammon fund. The Germans would all go for him, because he has always been in favor of nominating Germans for every office to which there was no chance of their being elected. The colored people would all go for him because they affect blameless and beautiful blondes. The white people would all go for him on the Scriptural principle of blessing him that curses them, and of loving their enemies, and finally the brokers and lawyers would all go for him, because the market is glutted with paper due from Bohemians, philosophers and poets to this extraordinary personage—paper which when President he would use all the powers of the Kuklux bill to collect.

Such are the day dreams and night visions of the man. He has firmly convinced himself of these favorable probabilities by the same course of reasoning that has rendered him a life-long advocate of protection. He appeals to the South with his Secession record, to the East with his Abolition record, to the West with his rural record, to the central States with his Union record, to the Quakers with his peace record, and to the men and brethren with his capital letter record. In case he is elected he has already selected his cabinet in advance, as follows:

Secretary of State—COLORADO JEWETT.
Secretary of the Treasury—SAMUEL SINCLAIR.
Secretary of War—ALFRED LOVE.
Secretary of the Navy—GEORGE M. ROBESON.
Postmaster-General—JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG.
Secretary of the Iterior—WINDUST.
Attorney-General—STEPHEN H. BRANCH.
Private Secretray—ALBERT H. BRISBANE.

With himself for President and these gentlemen for his constitutional advisers, he believes he could make the Republican Party accomplish its mission. It is believed he could. He would introduce into the White House the better manners of by-gone days. A now, he would repudiate the franking privilege, and as now, would make SAMUEL SINCLAIR pay all his postage. He would revive the Jacksonian policy, and improve upon it in the item of vigorous appeals to the author of his being. He would irrigate Lafayette Park and the President's grounds at once with a system of drains which would turn all the Potomac and the Washington Canal into the inclosures. He would make but one reply to all office-seekers: "Go West and buy a farm." He would employ Miss VINNIE REAM to do in wood "the well-meaning but narrow-minded blockheads of the Loyal League." He would write all his own messages and print them as double-leaded editorials signed H. G. in the Tribune, and then if any of the other editors complained of his partiality he would denounce them as "those small beings whom God for some inscrutable reason permits to edit a majority of our journals." He would administer the Government in such a way as to save $11,551 per year—precisely the amount made by the Tribune during the twelve months Mr. GREELEY "took it in personal charge."

Many other things marvelous and anomalous would he do, but alas he can neither be nominated nor elected. By giving to GRANT all the power he asked for against the Democrats, Mr. GREELEY has put into the soldier's hands the means, and into his mind the resolution to be his own successor, so far as the Convention of the Republican Party can make him so. Mr. GREELEY let that office-holder out in Kansas draw his fire, and thereby he put GRANT on his guard. Henceforth the "unfriendliness" of the Tribune, which it admits against GRANT is referrable to its correct motive—the ambition of the Tribune editor. The office-holders and wire-pullers will first put GRANT on the track again, and then, as of old, whip Mr. GREELEY into supporting him. He will be opposed to a second term for GRANT just as he was opposed to a second term for LINCOLN, and his effort to control the bought and paid-for renomination will, as before, be defeated, and he, as before, will be compelled to do nauseating duty as a trumpeteer. The best thing Mr. GREELEY has done is only to identify all this partisan meeting with his personal ambition. He will be openly headed off, but he will be forced to advocate the "sashed and girded sphinx," as he called him once; forced to see him defeated, and forced to live under the rule of the party which has made to his abilities fuller and franker acknowledgments than he ever has to that party's integrity, loyalty and patriotism.

Gov. Hoffman's Veto Again.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your issue of the 6th inst. a correspondent, "Reader," takes me to task for saying that Gov. HOFFMAN vetoed the Seventy's charter because it provided for minority representation in New-York City, after having, in two annual messages, recommended that such representation should be provided in any charter framed for this City. Also, "Reader" argues that an amendment of the Constitution is necessary to provide for minority representation in this State. Now, Gov. HOFFMAN, in his messages of Jan. 5, 1869, and Jan. 2, 1872, point-blank favored "a just and proportionate representation to the minority" in this City, and thought any charter which might be framed should provide for it. Does anybody suppose his Excellency meant that the State Constitution must be amended in order to provide for the minority representation he thus recommended? Furthermore, the act of March 29, 1867, under which the last Constitutional Convention met, provided for minority representation, by allowing no man to vote for more than sixteen of the thirty-two delegates at large. There was no amendment of the Constitution here, simply a legislative act, and if that were unconstitutional, the Convention elected under it, and the Judiciary amendment proposed by the Convention, and the Court of Appeals chosen under the amendment, are one and all unconstitutional, null and void. Our Court of Appeals is a minority representation Court, owing its ultimate existence not to a constitutional amendment, but a simple legislative act. The charter elections of Wilmington, N. C., I may add, are to take place this month by the same cumulative vote as Gov. HOFFMAN vetoed in this City, the North Carolina Legislature having passed an act to that end.

THE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

Report of the Methodist Episcopal Book Committee—Many of Dr. Lanahan's Charges Substantiated.

The fifth day's session of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference was begun at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, with the customary religious services.

The Committee on Rules of Order reported the advisability of amending the rules by which the reconsideration of a non-debateable vote should be decided without debate. The Conference adopted the report.

On motion the reception of the fraternal delegates from other bodies was made the special order of the day for Wednesday next at 10 o'clock.

Dr. KYNETT presented the report from the managers of the Church Extension Society, which was ordered to be printed.

The Standing Committee on Freedmen reported their organization as follows: J. W. WALDRON, chairman, and D. C. SCHMIDT, Secretary.

Dr. BROOKS offered to present the report of the Book Committee to the attention of Conference.

Dr. E. O. HAVENS desired the regular order of business to be taken up, but finding that the Conference was anxious to hear the report of the Book Committee, he withdrew his motion, and the report was read. The following is a synopsis:

After alluding briefly to the work done by the Book Concern, and the necessity of the General Conference providing for new wants, a reference is made to the great loss sustained by the fire at Chicago, and the "commendable energy" of the agents in speedily resuming business, it takes up the matter of the Book Concern in New-York, and rehearses the details of the struggle between Dr. LANAHAN and those whom he was trying to unmask, down to the time when the Committee could do no more, their powers being exhausted, and JAMES P. KILBRETH, of Cincinnati, was fully authorized to make a thorough investigation of the books of the Concern. "He made these examinations," says the report, "at a very heavy outlay of time and labor, and now refuses compensation for his services. He has done gratuitously what he could not have been hired to do."

Mr. KILBRETH's report begins by referring to the authority under which he was appointed, and reports that he began his investigations in August last, by acquiring a knowledge of the method in which the business of the Book Concern was carried on. He then examined the documents on record connected with the alleged frauds, and found them to contain as much matter "as the Holy Bible," and having examined the books kept by those in charge of the Book Concern, he had arrived at the conclusion that the business was "not in a confused or chaotic state," but decidedly otherwise, especially during the past five years. He thought "advantageous changes could be made in some of the forms," so as to place the responsibility on the Chief Accountant. The financial department he considered above reproach. He referred to the report of the inspection made by two professional accountants, E. H. GOUGE and C. A. APPEL, who, under the direction of Dr. LANAHAN, consumed a number of weeks; and, after criticising it, agreed with the strictures made by them, especially the entry of Nov. 30, 1868, when $54,372 11 was charged to "profit and loss for correction of errors." This, he thought, was bungling, "though, doubtless, an honest attempt to correct the closing entries of former years." He then proceeds to explain other structures of Mr. GOUGE, but only to show that clerical errors, and not dishonesty, existed in the keeping of the books of several years prior to 1868. The investigations of the printing and binding departments are not so felicitous. He shows that in the printing department one of the paper-dealers stated "that he sometimes divided his profits with the employe of a patronizing house, and saw nothing wrong in it," but had no proof of such a collusion with the head of the department of the Book Concern. In "the binding, it is more than a probability that this very collusion, in one or two cases, existed." With regard to the printing department, however, it was proved that large quantities of paper were sold to the Concern through JAMES F. PORTER, to whom a commission was paid by the paper-dealers. PORTER, having intimate relations with the Book Concern, had greater influence than others. PORTER "was sufficiently acute to take in all the features of the case at a glance, and made haste to improve his opportunities. None will deny that he did this effectually." So says the report. Mr. KILBRETH failed to find any collusion or corruption in this matter of purchasing paper, but thought it was wrong to put PORTER in the place he occupied and then keep him there for five years. The commission to PORTER, however, did "not come out of the Book Concern," but out of the paper-dealers who thought they were in PORTER's power.

In the bindery department it is apparent by the report that with regard to the management by H. R. HOFFMAN, the Superintendent, a great looseness existed, and a loss occurred in consequence. It is also alleged that he overcharged the accounts of the employes, by which the Book Concern was defrauded of $448 25, in about four months. This system was so perfect that HOFFMAN obtained the signatures of the employes to sums more than they received, they evidently not knowing what they signed. Mr. KILBRETH says, "the circumstances of the case give it a decidedly dark appearance." He then shows by figures, that, during HOFFMAN's superintendency, "there was either great waste or dishonesty in the bindery, or probably both." The report then goes on to show that the agent, Dr. CARLTON, "does not seek benefit from the funds of the Book Concern," "nor get favors from the bank where the balances of the Concern are kept."

Dr. SLICER attempted several times to get in a minority report of the Committee, but failed in consequence of a motion to adjourn being offered immediately after the conclusion of the reading of Mr. KILBRETH's report. Notwithstanding this the minority distributed printed copies of their reports, so that the members will be enabled to judge somewhat accurately of the state of affairs by a careful analysis of the three reports. The minority "are prepared to present the most conclusive proofs" that mismanagement is still going on in the affairs of the Book Concern, which "has suffered from want of personal supervision, the principal agent and some of his subordinates giving so much attention to private business, to corporations and various forms of speculation in part carried on in the Concern." The report says: "We believe that Dr. LANAHAN has suffered serious wrong. The chief paper, bearing his name as publisher, has cautioned the public against his statements," &c. It is believed the Conference is too just to exclude both sides of the case, and that the report of the other side will be accepted today.

The Dobelstein Mystery.

Coroner BURNS held an inquest, yesterday, on the body of FREDERICK DOBELSTEIN, found in the basement of the house, No. 100 Bergen-street, Jersey City, on Thursday last. Mrs. WILDEBRANT testified to seeing HENRY LOSCHE, (arrested on suspicion of murdering DOBELSTEIN,) quarreling on the night in question with a man named KLENTWORTH, and heard him threatening to use his knife. LENA COOKE said she had been awakened by a heavy fall about 1 o'clock Thursday morning. She afterward heard footsteps on the stairs. County Physician Dr. PRENDERGAST testified to having made a post-mortem examination; death had resulted from the fracture of the skull; the wound in the hip was jagged and could scarcely have been made with a knife; the fracture of the skull might have been caused by a fall from a window, or by a blow from some heavy sharp instrument. The physician was shown the hook taken from the wall, but expressed a doubt as to whether it could have caused the wound. The inquest was adjourned till Thursday.

Exposing an Equivocation.

Mr. CHARLES A. DANA, in his paper, the Sun, of yesterday, states that the assertion in the TIMES of Sunday, that he was in Philadelphia on Saturday, is an untruth. Our correspondent saw his name in the book at the Continental on Saturday, and being told that he was in the house, sent up his card and was informed by the boy that Mr. DANA was at breakfast. Afterward the clerk informed him that Mr. DANA left the house shortly after 10 o'clock. He inquired, also, from Mr. BARTLETT the circumstances of Mr. DANA's flight, and that eloquent counsel hinted in a round-about way that Mr. DANA had left that morning. If there is any untruth in the matter it has not been told by our correspondent. Certainly Mr. DANA will not deny that if he was not in Philadelphia on Saturday, he ought to have been.

The Children's Aid Society Italian School.

The Italian School under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society gave an entertainment last evening at their rooms, No. 46 Franklin-street. The singing by the children was very fine, and rendered in their own musical dialect, some of the songs were particularly sweet. An address by one of the young men, a graduate of the school, was given in an easy, flowing style. Addresses by Prof. BATTA, Judge KIRKLAND, and the Italian Consul, Chevalier DE LUCCA, with the reading of the report, and some remarks by Mr. C. L. BRACE, all tended to show the efficiency and success attending the labors of the Superintendent and teachers. One remarkable fact is presented in the statement that during the seventeen years this school has been in operation no one attendant on its teachings has ever been arrested for a criminal offense. The great numbers now applying for instruction renders an enlargement of their premises necessary. The managers make an earnest appeal to the public to aid them, both by money and donations of books for their library. There were about forty graduates of the school present, who, by their neat appearance and decorous behavior, won the admiration of all visitors. These young men have, at their own expense, fitted up the basement as a reading-room, and, while they mean to be self-supporting as a society, will gratefully receive any donations of books, daily or weekly papers and periodicals, that a generous public may send to their rooms. Subscriptions to the amount of $12,000 have already been received, but a further addition of $18,000 is required to bring the amount up to the lowest estimate demanded for new and more commodious buildings for these worthy children of the Italian colony. Contributions for this purpose may be sent to Mr. E. P. FABRI, No. 42 South-street, Treasurer of the Italian Committee.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

The Street-Cleaning Contract—Action of the Common Council and the Street-Cleaning Commission.

The Board of Aldermen met at 3 o'clock yesterday, the President in the chair.

Alderman WILDER presented a resolution requesting the Legislature to enact the bill No. 902, introduced by Hon. Mr. LOUGHRAN, relating to the cancellation of the present street-cleaning contract, and the assumption of the business of the Street-cleaning Commission by the Board of Police Commissioners. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 18 to 1, the negative vote being cast by Alderman COMAN.

The Committee on Streets reported and submitted a resolution earnestly requesting the Street-cleaning Commission to take immediate steps for the termination of the "so-called street-cleaning contract," and restore the control over the matter to where it properly belongs, so that the citizens may have a chance of enjoying the great blessings of clean streets at a limited expenditure.

The resolution was adopted.

The Board then adjourned to next Monday.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen met at 2 o'clock yesterday, OTIS T. HALL, President, in the chair, and the following members present at the roll call: Messrs. Foley, Stacom, Galvin, Robinson, Krans, Coddington, Strack, Pinckney, Costello, Wade, Littlefield, Geis, Simenson, Cumisky, McDonald and Schwartz.

During the reading of the minutes by the Deputy Clerk, Assistant Alderman PINCKNEY rose to a question of privilege. He said there was a person receiving a salary as reader to the Board, and he wished to know why he did not make his appearance and do his duty. He is receiving a salary.

The President replied that the clerk informed him that the reader was still sick and unable to be present.

Mr. PINCKNEY—It is doubtful whether he can read; he has never done anything to entitle him to compensation.

Assistant Alderman STRACK presented a petition from the Tax-payers' Association of the Tenth, Eleventh and Seventeenth Wards, calling attention to the filthy condition of the streets in the very densely populated district comprising these Wards, and praying that the Board take decisive action looking to the immediate cleaning of the streets.

The petition was referred to the Committee on Public Health.

Assistant Alderman GEIS presented a resolution calling upon the Bureau of Permits for an account of the amount of money paid for license fees by the several City railroads since their organization, as also all amounts of money paid by the several City stage and accommodation coaches, and the names of all defaulting railway and stage companies, if any.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. GEIS also offered a resolution directing the Corporation Counsel to report if there are any actions pending by the City against street railway companies, and if so, in what condition such actions are; also, if any compromise has been offered as to the arrears of license fee by any railway company. Mr. GEIS said that by an agreement entered into by the Third-avenue Railroad in 1853, it was agreed that they pay annual license fee for each car. This agreement has not been complied with.

Assistant Alderman CONOR said that the Railroad Committee has had the matter of license fees under consideration. They have found that other companies are defaulters as well as the Third-avenue.

The resolution was, however, laid on the table.

Assistant Alderman STRACK offered as a supplement to the petition presented by him at an earlier stage of the proceedings, requesting the Street-cleaning Commission to direct the street-cleaning contractor to sprinkle the streets while they are being swept, and to have the gutters of all the streets washed when necessary.

Assistant Alderman PINCKNEY said that one man named BROWN is allowed the money of the City through the Street-cleaning Commission. If he had his deserts he would be in Sing Sing now. Through his neglect more sickness has been created and greater fear than by small-pox. Why not, said Mr. PINCKNEY, indict the Street-cleaning Commission, for they are parties to BROWN's stealing? I don't believe in this child's talk; the Commission have been wasting time while the City is suffering. This BROWN is dividing the money with thieves, and you know it. I think shooting is the only remedy we have for the abolishment of this useless Commission.

Several other members followed, condemning the tardy action of the Commission.

The Board then adjourned to Thursday.

The Street-cleaning Commission met in the Controller's office at 10 A. M. yesterday. Present, the Mayor, (in the chair,) the Controller, the Recorder, the President of the Board of Health, and the Corporation Counsel.

The power of the Board to abrogate the street-cleaning contract held by JOHN L. BROWN was the special subject of business. Some difference of opinion was expressed on the matter. The Mayor, although favoring the rescission of the contract, expressed his fears that hasty action on the part of the Board would, owing to the difficulties presented in the contract to rescission, entail a suit for damages. The Recorder believed it could be canceled, there being sufficient proof of non-performance of contract. Judge BOSWORTH, too, was in doubt as to their power to proceed. Finally, the Controller offered the following resolution, which was carried unanimously:

Resolved, That the Controller be and he is hereby authorized to submit to counsel the street-cleaning contract and relative documents as to the cleaning of the streets, with such facts relating to the performance thereof and the work under the same as the Street-cleaning Commission is possessed of, and to obtain and lay before the Commission at the next meeting, at 3 o'clock on Thursday next, an opinion as to the rights and liability of the City under and in reference to the said contract and the performance of the said work, and that Messrs. STRAHAN and PORTER be selected to make such a report.

Judge BOSWORTH then submitted the following, which was carried unanimously:

Resolved, That the Street-cleaning Commission respectfully memorialize the Legislature at once to consider and immediately act upon the various subjects comprised in Assembly bill No. 902, and to provide, in such form of law as may seem best to the Legislature, the main object sought for by such bill, to not dealing with the present street-cleaning contract, and with the details of street cleaning for New-York in the future.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The business transacted at the Exchange yesterday, (Monday,) May 6, was light, only two sales being consummated, both of a legal character, and of minor importance. The attendance was fair, and real estate matters were discussed at length; but in the proceedings, but little interest was manifested. The auctions held resulted as follows: JOSEPH MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, under the direction of JULIUS J. LYONS, Esq., referee, at an adjourned sale, disposed of a three-story brick tenement-house, and lot, situate on the south side of East Thirty-second-street, sixty-five feet west of First-avenue, for $6,050, the purchaser being Mrs. B. HINGSTENBURG. The price realized was low. JAMES M. MILLER, also at a Supreme Court foreclosure sale, CHARLES PRICE, Esq., referee, sold a three-story and basement high-stoop brick house and lot, on the south side of West Twenty-sixth-street, 412 feet west of Sixth avenue, for $10,100—also a low figure. The purchaser of this property was WM. H. DECKER. The other legal sale, in charge of Mr. MILLER, announced for yesterday, of house and lot on the south-east corner of Third-avenue and One Hundred and Eighth-street, was adjourned until Aug. 20. Nothing further of note occurred. In reference to the suburban auctions held yesterday, namely, at Roselle, N. J., by A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., and and at Richmond Hill, Long Island, by JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., detailed reports will appear to-morrow, and during the season we shall adhere to the rule of giving reports of country sales on the next day but one succeeding the auction, for if an attempt is made to furnish the result on the day following the sale, the statements are, in nine cases out of ten, inaccurate and incorrect. It is our design to make all our reports reliable, and in the matter of suburban sales particularly, the reports are usually worthless unless substantiated by proper inquiry.

For to-day, at the Exchange, the auctions proposed are important, and as the property billed for sale is in many instances choice and valuable, the attendance of investors and others should be large. The property to be offered by A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., a tract of land embracing eighty City lots, situated on the Grand Boulevard and fronting on the Hudson River, between One Hundred and Thirty-fifth and One Hundred and Thirty-seventh streets, should especially attract the attention of capitalists, while the real estate to be offered by other auctioneers is also worthy of notice, viz.: By MULLER, WILKINS & CO., houses and lots on Grand-street, Nos. 28 and 30, between Grand and Canal streets; lots on East Seventy-ninth and Eightieth streets, near Third-avenue; a large tract of land containing twenty extra-size lots in Westchester County, near McCoomb's Bridge, on a line with One Hundred and Sixty-first-street, this City, and a desirable manufacturing property on King-street, Brooklyn. By E. H. LUDLOW & CO., a first-class brown-stone house on West Twenty-fifth-street, (No. 38,) near Broadway, the large brick store and lot No. 47 Catharine-street, formerly occupied by LORD & TAYLOR. The store property, No. 185 Church-street, between Franklin and White streets, and a large store and lot on Front-street, (No. 166,) near Fletcher-street. By JOSEPH MCGUIRE, at various legal sales, a house and lot (No. 625) on West Forty-second-street, near Eleventh-avenue; a house and lot on the north-west corner of Fifth-street and Avenue C, and a house and lot on Attorney, near Stanton-street. By WM. KENNELLY, at a Sheriff's sale, an undivided one-seventh interest in property on East Broadway, Henry, Broome and Clinton streets, and in addition, by JOHN WARREN, at auction, not noticed in our list published yesterday, the following City realty: Four-story high-stoop brown-stone house and lease of lot, situate on the north side of East Fifty-sixth-street, between First-avenue and Avenue A, 20 by 40 by 100, and the four-story brick tenement-house (with store) and lease of lot located on the north-east corner of First-avenue and East Fifty-sixth-street, 20 by 45 by 100; also, two three-story brick houses and lots located at Clifton, Staten Island, near the lower landing, and situated on New-York avenue, between Willow and Maple avenues.

At private sale, WM. H. RAYNOR, No. 5½ Pine-street, reports having sold the following real estate at the prices noted: One lot on the south-east corner of Fifth-avenue and Eighty-fifth-street, 27.2 by 100, for $53,000; two lots on the south-west corner of Madison-avenue and Ninety-ninth-street, for $16,000, (resold for $17,000;) one four-story brown-stone house and lot on the north side of Thirty-second-street, 99 feet east of Broadway, for $42,000; two three-story frame houses and lots on the south side of One Hundred and Thirty-second-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, 18.9 by 40 by 100, for $11,000 each; two full lots on the north side of One Hundred and Thirty-fourth-street, North New-York, east of Willis-avenue, for $1,600 each, and six lots at Grove Hill, Morrisania, for $1,800.

Among the private sales effected during the past week was one made through Messrs. SLADE & STAFFORD, of the store property on the south-east corner of Second-avenue and One Hundred and Fifteenth-street, embracing a lot 20.10 by 75, with a new store-front building thereon, together with the new French flat property, adjoining in rear, fronting on One Hundred and Fifteenth-street, lot 25 by 100.10, entire to WM. H. HALLOCK, for $40,000 cash. The price is considered a good one for the buyer, for should the operations now in progress in the opening of the channel of the East River at Hell Gate prove successful and ships of heavy burden are thus enabled to discharge their cargoes in this locality all the real estate in this neighborhood will be greatly enhanced in value.

Total Destruction of Niblo's Garden by Fire Yesterday.

Narrow Escape of Several Firemen and Policemen.

Extraordinary Scenes In and About the Buildings.

The Aggregate Loss Estimated at Over $200,000.

Interesting History of the Famous Theatre.

Niblo's Garden was entirely destroyed yesterday morning by fire, the progress of the flames being so rapid that scarcely anything was saved. The loss is a very heavy one, and the event has frustrated many plans and important engagements in the future.

DISCOVERY OF THE FIRE.

A few minutes before 8 o'clock, as Capt. PETER YULE, of the Sanitary Police, was passing along Crosby-street, on his way to the Central Police Office, he observed a slender column of smoke curling up from the roof of Niblo's Theatre, in the rear, on the Crosby-street side of the building. To his utter surprise a policeman was standing on the corner of Crosby and Prince streets, also watching the smoke, but without making any effort to discover from what cause it originated. Capt. YULE, feeling certain that the building was on fire, at once hurried the policeman off to the nearest fire-alarm box to give an alarm. On entering the building, it was found that there was a small fire burning briskly in the ceiling of the dome, immediately over the centre of the auditorium. A number of carpenters and stage-hands, who were still at work in the building, preparing for the production of the spectacle of "Lalla Rookh," were notified of the danger, when they at once commenced preparations to extinguish the flames. A line of hose attached to a fire-plug on the stage was unrolled, and another line was stretched into the building from the Metropolitan Hotel. Water was soon procured, but owing to the great height at which the fire was burning it was found impossible to reach the flames. The alarm which had been sent out was promptly responded to by the section of the Fire Department located in that district. Engine Company No. 20 was the first steamer to arrive, and the firemen, entering by the Crosby-street door, conveyed a line of hose into the family circle, and by judicious management succeeded in throwing water against the burning ceiling, but not in sufficient quantities to check the progress of the flames. Engineer BRANDON was early on the ground, and by his direction Engine No. 30 took position in Broadway and carried in a line of hose through the theatre entrance and into the middle aisle of the parquet, from which position the steamer threw a stream sufficiently powerful to reach the seat of the fire. The pipe of Engine No. 25 was taken in on the stage, and from this somewhat elevated position the firemen played upon the ceiling. Notwithstanding the three streams of water thus directed against the flames, they spread with great rapidity along the ceiling, and the dome was soon one mass of fire. Engineer BRANDON, finding that the force of firemen on the ground was insufficient to cope with the element, ordered a second alarm to be sounded, and a reinforcement of steamers and ladder trucks was soon hurrying to the scene of the conflagration. A detachment of truckmen, with axes and hooks, was immediately sent to the roof of the theatre for the purpose of opening large holes to give a vent for the great body of flame and the dense smoke which filled the entire building.

FIREMEN IN PERIL.

Before these axmen could accomplish their object, an explosion occurred, which drove them from their advantageous position, and compelled them to beat a hasty retreat. The explosion was evidently caused by the confined heat and foul air, and was so sudden and violent in its nature as to imperil the lives of several firemen and others who were in the auditorium. It was exactly in character to that which occurred at the destruction of the Academy of Music some years ago, and by which three firemen lost their lives. When the explosion occurred yesterday morning, Foreman HUGH BONNER, of Engine Company No. 20, was in the family circle directing the efforts of three of his men, who had charge of the pipe. BONNER and his men were blown back from their position, and were compelled to abandon the pipe. BONNER was thrown toward the stairs, and made his escape to the street by the stairway. The two men who had hold of the pipe were thrown against the wall, but succeeded in crawling out of the rear third story windows on Crosby-street, and when about to leap to the ground Engineer BRANDON called to them not to do so. A ladder was then quickly raised, by which the men descended in safety. A fireman named CARROLL was severely injured about the back. He was carried out of the building by his comrades. The firemen on the main floor of the theatre were thrown down by the force of the explosion, and were almost covered by the falling débris, but managed to escape without serious injury.

POLICE OFFICERS INJURED.

Capt. CLINCH, of the Fourteenth Precinct, was thrown down, his right arm and side were severely bruised, and his uniform was torn in several places. His left hand was severely burned. Notwithstanding his injuries, he remained on duty during the whole fire, and did not leave until nearly 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Detective SIMINGTON, of the Central Office, an old fireman, who entered the theatre almost as soon as the fire was discovered, attached a hose-pipe to the fire-hydrant in the corridor of the parquet circle, but as the hydrant was out of order he failed to get water. When the explosion occurred, he was vainly endeavoring to coax the water out of the hydrant. He was thrown down by the concussion and had his ankle sprained.

PROGRESS OF THE FLAMES.

After the explosion the flames burst forth with renewed fury, and, descending from the dome, extended to the family circle, and thence to the body of the theatre. The scenery and the highly-inflammable materials on the stage took fire at the same time, and added more fuel to the flames. A third alarm was then sounded, and brought to the scene an additional force of steamers and firemen. Chief-Engineer PERLEY had by this time arrived, and assumed command of the force on the ground. He was ably assisted by Engineers Bates, Brandon, Orr, Shay and Erlacher. The force was well disposed, and worked with great energy to check the progress of the flames, but all their efforts seemed futile. The fire continued to increase and extend, as though no attempt was being made to stay its devastating career. The whole theatre building appeared like a gigantic furnace belching forth great volumes of flames and smoke, and great crowds of people were attracted to the spot by the magnificent spectacle presented.

THE THEATRE DOOMED.

By 9½ o'clock it was apparent to all that the theatre could not be saved. The Metropolitan Hotel was in great danger, and the firemen, abandoning all hope of saving any portion of the theatre from destruction, turned their whole attention to the hotel building, and by their earnest and praiseworthy efforts succeeded in saving that portion of the structure. The south wing of the hotel took fire several times, however, but the flames were quickly extinguished. Fortunately, the theatre building is detached from the hotel, and between the two buildings is a strip of ground about twenty-five feet wide, and planted as a flower-garden. But for this intervening space, and the fact that the breeze was from the west, no human power could have saved the hotel from complete destruction.

The flames spread to the building No. 594 Broadway, recently occupied by HELMBOLD, the druggist, and this building was very badly damaged. A row of dwelling-houses on Crosby-street, extending from No. 113 to No. 121, was also in great jeopardy. The roofs of these dwellings were on fire several times, but the flames were quickly extinguished by the firemen. The front doors and windows are badly scorched, but no serious damage was sustained.

GAINING CONTROL.

It was 10 o'clock before the firemen had succeeded in gaining control of the flames, and it was nearly an hour later before the fire was finally extinguished. The scene about the building at this time was one of utter desolation and ruin. The interior of the theatre was entirely burned out, and nothing was left standing but the bare skeleton walls, and these are in such a dangerous condition that it is more than probable that they will have to be torn down. There is no vestige of the stage, which was probably the best-constructed one in the United States. The parquet is covered with a mass of débris and half-burned beams. The iron frameworks of some of the seats remain, but all the handsome upholstery and elegant fittings of the theatre are destroyed.

A SCENE OF DESTRUCTION.

The roof of the theatre building fell in soon after the explosion noticed above, and the site of what, but a few short hours before, was one of the handsomest and best appointed theatres in the country is nothing but a huge cavern partially filled with a smoking mass of ruins. On the site of the stage and where the property-rooms were situated could be seen pieces of blackened armor and portions of the elegant dresses which were wont to delight the eye and excite the admiration of the thousands who frequented the theatre when such spectacles as the "Black Crook," the "White Fawn," and the "Naiad Queen" were presented. All these fragments were wet and draggled and torn. The stage machinery, all ruined and destroyed, could be seen shrunken and torn into a thousand fantastic shapes by the action of the flames, and partially buried under great heaps of sodden rubbish. Above this terrible scene rose a dense cloud of smoke from the smoldering ruins.

THE LOSSES INCURRED.

The losses caused by the fire cannot be as yet accurately estimated. Messrs. JARRETT & PALMER, the lessees of the theatre, sustain a loss on wardrobes, scenery, &c., of about $50,000, and they are only insured for $5,000 in the Phenix and $2.500 in the Adriatic Company. During last Summer some of their policies expired, and as the companies required a premium of ten per cent., they declined to renew the risks. It was stated that their lease of the building was insured for $150,000. Mr. L. J. VINCENT, the stage manager, had a wardrobe valued at $500 in the building, which was all destroyed. Mr. CHARLES H. MORTON, a member of the company, also sustained a loss of $600 on wardrobe. Several other members of the company lose from $100 to $500 on their wardrobes and properties. Mr. JOHN F. COLE, the owner of the scenery and properties used in the production of the spectacle of "Lalla Rookh," which was to have been presented at Niblo's last evening, loses about $30,000 by the destruction of his property, which was not insured. At the conclusion of the performance on Friday night at the Grand Opera-house, Mr. COLE commenced the removal of the scenery and properties to Niblo's, and about two-thirds of his property had been so transferred, to be destroyed yesterday morning.

A quantity of valuable music belonging to Signor OPERTI, the leader of the orchestra, was destroyed, and the first violinist lost a violin valued at $250, which he had left in the building at the close of the performance on Saturday night. The stage carpenter, BENSEL SHERWOOD, succeeded in saving his chest of valuable tools, but the stage mechanics all sustain losses varying from $100 to $200 each.

The theatre building was owned by Mr. A. T. STEWART. It was a brick structure, four stories in height, and the loss on building and interior fittings is estimated at $125,000, on which there is but a partial insurance. Mr. STEWART, in conversation with Mr. JARRETT, yesterday, stated that it was his intention to rebuild the theatre as soon as he could possibly arrange the contracts. He proposed erecting a building which would excel in magnificence and appointments any place of amusement in the United States.

INSURANCES ON THE HOTEL.

The hotel building is also owned by Mr. STEWART, and is damaged to the extent of $10,000. The hotel is leased to TWEED & GARFIELD, who own the elegant furniture, carpets, &c. The damage to the interior of the hotel is exclusively by water, and is estimated at $10,000. Messrs. TWEED & GARFIELD are insured for $175,250 in the following companies:

Security, New-York, and Triumph, of Cincinnati, $10,000 each; Pacific Insurance Company, $7,500; Springfield, Massachusetts; Arctic; Atlantic, of Providence, R. I.; City, of Hartford, Conn.; Equitable, of Providence, R. I.; National, of Baltimore; Tremont, of Boston; Charter Oak, of Hartford; Merchants', of Hartford; Humboldt, of New-York; Lycoming, of Pennsylvania, and Bowery, of New-York, $5,000 each; Germania, of Newark, and Newark City Mutual, $3,000 each; St. Nicholas, of New-York, $1,250; American, Jersey City; First National, of Worcester, Mass.; Hibernia, of Cleveland, Ohio; Equitable, of Philadelphia; Anthracite, of Philadelphia; Reading Fire Insurance Trust Company, Pennsylvania; Union Mutual, Philadelphia; Humboldt, Newark, N. J.; Citizens', Newark, N. J.; Merchants' Mutual, Newark, N. J.; Putnam, of Hartford; Relief, of New-York; Roger Williams, of Providence, R. I.; Firemen's Fund, San Francisco; Mercantile, of New-York; Metropolitan, of New-York; Hoffman, of New-York; Glen's Falls; Merchants', of Providence, R. I.; Columbia, of New-York; Exchange, of New-York; New-Amsterdam, of New-York; Lafayette, of Brooklyn; Union, of San Francisco; Girard, of Philadelphia; Manufacturers' and Builders', of New-York; American, of Jersey City; Firemen's Fund, New-York, and Albany City, $2,500 each. Total, $175,250.

CONFUSION AMONG THE GUESTS.

The fire caused a great deal of excitement among the guests at the hotel, and many of them became so alarmed that they packed up their effects and carried them down stairs in readiness to leave the building which they imagined was doomed to destruction. A number of Eighth Ward thieves, taking advantage of the panic which prevailed, entered the hotel with the intent of robbing the rooms. Their presence was quickly discovered, however, and they were driven from the premises by Detective BRENNAN and Officer KIRSH. Policemen were then stationed at all the entrances, and no person was allowed to pass unless he was properly identified.

OTHER LOSSES.

The building No. 594 Broadway, which is badly damaged by the fire, is owned by HENRY BEADEL, whose loss is estimated at $10.000, and the building is insured for $25,000. The first and second floors of this building, formerly occupied by HELMBOLD, are vacant. The upper floors are occupied as meeting-rooms for several Masonic Lodges and Chapters. In these rooms Normal, Eureka, Metropolitan, St. Cecile, John D. Willard, Girard, Globe, Arcturus, Darcy and City Lodges used to assemble, and also Empire, Zerubabel, Palestine and Amity Chapters held their meetings there, as did also Post No. 8, Grand Army Republic, Barton Lodge, K. P. and B. P. O. of Elks, No. 1. All these societies sustain losses, varying from $500 to $1,000 by fire and water. The Lodge-room on the third floor was originally fitted up by Normal Lodge No. 523, F. A. M., and their loss on the furniture and fittings will probably amount to $5,000.

The dwellings Nos. 113, 115, 117, 119 and 121 Crosby-street were damaged by fire and water to the aggregate amount of $5,000. The occupants sustain slight losses by water.

MOVEMENTS OF THE POLICE.

As soon as information in regard to the extent of the conflagration reached the Central Police Office, Superintendent KELSO sent out an order by telegraph directing each precinct below Fourteenth-street to send a detachment of Police to the scene to preserve order and protect property. Nearly 100 men were soon on the ground, and formed a cordon around the block bounded by Prince and Houston streets. Inspectors WALLING and THORNE were also present, and aided by Capts. CLINCHY and McDERMOTT, so disposed of the force as to preserve order among the great crowds of spectators who were attracted to the spot by the fire. Fire-Commissioners HITCHMAN and GALWAY were also at the scene, cheering and encouraging the firemen in their arduous combat with the flames.

THE ORIGIN OF THE FLAMES.

The origin of the fire is involved in great mystery at present. There were rumors circulated during the fire that the theatre had been set on fire by some unknown incendiary, but these rumors could not be traced to any reliable source. The flames evidently originated in a lumber-room immediately over the apex of the dome, and are supposed to have been caused by the gross carelessness of some of the employes going in there with a light, or it perhaps originated by spontaneous combustion. A rehearsal of "Lalla Rookh" was held on Sunday evening, and it is supposed that during the night some one of the persons employed about the stage entered the lumber-room referred to above, either with an unguarded light or smoking a pipe or cigar, and incautiously set fire to some rubbish which, doubtless, smoldered until it was discovered yesterday morning. Fire Marshal McSPEDON will make a full investigation into the origin of the fire.

RELIEF MEASURES.

A meeting of professionals will be held this morning at Room No. 117 Metropolitan Hotel, to devise means for the relief of the sufferers by the fire. A performance will be given on Wednesday at the Grand Opera-house for the benefit of the company, and on Friday for the benefit of the ballet. Great praise is due to BEN SHERWOOD, the property-man, for the courageous manner in which he worked and attempted to save books and valuable papers from the office. Mr. HUNTER, the ticket agent, nearly got burnt to death in attempting to reach the office, which is situated in the first gallery. Among others, Mr. ROLLIN HOWARD has volunteered his services for the benefit.

History of the Theatre.

In the year 1828, the land upon which Niblo's Garden and the Metropolitan Hotel stood was a portion of the Bayard Farm, being used as an equine training ground. Hon. S. VAN RENSSELAER subsequently purchased it for $15,000, and leased it to WM. NIBLO, who converted it into a garden for the use of the public. Large trees were transplanted from distant woods, flowers and choice exotics sprung up, and fountains gushed from artificial rock-work. In the evenings the gardens were illuminated. In the centre a neat music temple was erected. The burning of the old Bowery Theatre gave Mr. NILBO an opportunity, and in fifteen days from the time the foundation was laid an open-air theatre was completed, comprising a spacious stage, a parquet and two circles of boxes, capable of holding 1,200 persons. This theatre was called the Sans Souci. On the 18th of May, 1829, it was converted into a concert saloon of the first class, and opened with a grand musical festival. Soon after, Mr. NIBLO erected a larger theatre, where the RAVEL family appeared.

During the Summer of 1837 Niblo's was the fashionable resort, when a series of popular concerts were given under the direction of Mr. WATSON. The RAVEL Family also appeared in their pantomime entertainments. A vaudeville company was also formed, under the direction of JOSEPH JEFFERSON, the elder, and JOHN SEFTON, which produced a succession of musical farces in an agreeable manner. August 17, Mrs. MAEDER (CLARA FISHER) commenced an engagement, and Mr. LEWELLEN made his first appearance. On the 19th of September Mrs. NIBLO had a benefit, when the dramatic company and the RAVELS appeared. On the 23d the season closed with GABRIEL RAVEL, who appeared in the "Three Faced Frenchman," and JEROME played Jocko. The tableaux of the "Death of Abel" was also given, Mons. RAVEL, Sr., taking the part of Adam. The season was a successful one, and several new plays were performed.

In the Spring of 1838 Mr. WATSON again opened the Garden for concerts. The dramatic season commenced under JOHN SEFTON's management with a new comedy by CHARLES DANCE, called "Good Husbands Make Good Wives." The Ravel Company at that time included Gabriel, Antoine, Dominique, Jerome, François and Jean, and they appeared on the 12th in the pantomine of "Vol-au-Vent," and rope-dancing, alternating with the dramatic company. The "Barber of Seville" was brought out on the 27th and repeated several times, the great FORNASARI making his first appearance in five years. HORNCASTLE, FERRERO and Mrs. H. WALLACK were in the cast. GAMBATA, the celebrated performer on the trumpet, took a benefit on the 31st, when Mr. NORTON and Mons. AUPICK performed on the same instrument. The season closed with Mr. SEFTON's benefit.

The Garden remained closed until June 1839, when Mr. and Mrs. SEGUIN and a concert troupe alternated with the RAVELS. The dramatic season commenced on the 25th, with W. E. BURTON as the star, when "Paul Pry," "Forty Winks," and other old-time pieces were performed, the engagement being a triumphant one. In the following October Mr. JAMES WALKER transferred his National Theatre company, when Mr. VANDENHOFF and GEO. HILL appeared, Miss VANDENHOFF making her debut as Julia. On the 15th of October, the Seguin Company returned, and performed, among other operas, AUBER's "Gustavus III." Mr. CHARLES KEAN appeared on the 28th as Hamlet, and subsequently as Macbeth, Mrs. SHARPE playing Lady Macbeth, it being her last appearance on the New-York stage. Mr. FORREST appeared Nov. 11 in Richelieu, and a Mr. LOVE gave a monologue entertainment before the season closed on the 18th, Mr. FORREST playing Macbeth.

On the 1st of June, 1840, the Garden opened under the dramatic supervision of Mr. CHIPPENDALE, with the "Crown Prince" and "Everybody's Husband." The RAVEL Family also appeared on alternate nights. During the season, Mr. BALES, Miss MELTON and Mr. BURTON performed, CHARLOTTE and SUSAN CUSHMAN appearing in the "Water Party" for BURTON's benefit. Mrs. FITZWILLIAM was also a success. The RAVELS gave their pantomine "Glin Without Arms" July 24. COLMAN's celebrated farce "We Fly by Night" was also given Aug. 3, with a remarkable cast. Mr. NIBLO's benefit, Aug. 23, was the occasion of Mr. BURNTON's first appearance in "Chaste Salute," while BURTON and RICHINGS appeared in "Turning the Tables." Mr. RANGER and Mme. GIUBILEI were among the names that appear on the play-bills of that season. The season closed Oct. 7, with the RAVELS performing "Mons. Dechalmeau," the "Conjurer's Gift, or, the Magic Pills."

May 31, 1841, Niblo's Saloon was thrown open, with W. CHIPPENDALE as general manager and T. BISHOP stage director. The "Sergeant's Wedding" and "Butler Ben" being the opening pieces. HEN CLINE made his first appearance July 3, in some extraordinary tight-rope performances. A new farce called "Sublime and Beautiful" and "Burlington Arcade" were the principal events. Miss JANE SLOMAN was very successful in July with a series of piano-forte recitals, and on the 4th of August Mr. H. WELLS and Miss HARRIET WELLS made their first appearance. A new petite comedy was presented Sept. 6, for Mr. NIBLO's benefit, with a remarkable cast. The RAVELS did not appear until Sept. 20, the troupe having been augmented by CHARLES WINTHER, rope equilibrist, the Lapland dwarfs, Mons. CARLO and Mlle. CAROLINE. Mr. BUCKSTONE and FITZWILLIAM made a joint appearance Sept. 18, as Timothy and Matilda Tims, in "Snapping Turtles." The season was closed Oct. 27, the cool weather and airy condition of the saloon rendering the step necessary.

The return of warm weather found Niblo's Saloon as fashionable and popular as ever, opening June 1, 1842, with tight-rope performances by CHARLES WINTHER and the RAVEL family, who gave the pantomime of the "Magic Pills." This famous troupe was then in the very zenith of its fame, and performed four times a week, a dramatic company under CHIPPENDALE filling up the remaining nights. CHIPPENDALE, C. HOWARD, and C. W. CLARKE were among the company. Aug. 1, JEROME RAVEL's celebrated pantomime of "Mazulme, or the Night Owl," was performed, and proved a grand success. Mr. BUCKSTONE and Mrs. FITZWILLIAM appeared two or three times during the season. On the 27th, TOM PLACIDE took a benefit. A new pantomime was presented in the latter end of September, entitled the "Green Monster," which proved so great a success, and ran most prosperously until the 29th day of October, when the season terminated with a grand benefit for GABRIEL RAVEL.

In May of the following year Niblo's Theatre was disconnected from the gardens and leased to a company of French comedians and vocalists from New-Orleans. They opened on the 19th evening of the month, and Mlle. CULVE, a soprano singer of considerable merit, made her debut on the 26th in the opera of "L'Ambassadrice." The same troupe later in the season gave DONIZETTI's "Fille du Regiment" for the first time in New-York.

The gardens were not thrown open until the 6th of June, and then the French and English companies alternated, the entertainments being under the general management of JOHN SEFTON. On July 6 the English drama disappeared altogether to make room for the Ravel Family, who alternated with the French troupe. On the 9th of the following month the English company again appeared with great accessions of strength. Mr. E. L. DAVENPORT made his first appearance in this City on that occasion in the comedietta, "He's Not Amiss," in the part of Frederick Fitzallen. On Aug. 28 the Ravel Troupe produced another great pantomime, entitled the "Fifty-five Misfortunes of Fortunatus." On Sept. 15 an Italian company produced "Lucia di Lammermoor" for the first time, the leading characters being sustained by VATTELLINA, a basso profundo of great experience and undoubted skill. The soprano, Signora MAJOCCHI, was not popular. The production of BELLINI's "Norma" and of "Gemma di Vergy," closed the operatic season of this company.

June 3, 1844, the Niblo's Gardens commenced another season with the burlesque company from Mitchell's Olympic, opening with an English version of DONIZETTI's "Fille du Regiment." The company included JOHN HOLLAND, Mrs. BOOTH and the sprightly Miss TAYLOR. On the 7th of October Mr. MITCHELL closed, after having also produced, with great success, the "Yellow Dwarf," the "Fair One with the Golden Locks" and the "Milliners' Holiday." Mr. W. CORBYN then reopened it for a fortnight, bringing out Mr. BROUGHAM and a new fairy burletta, called "Fair Star; or, the Singing Apple."

The Summer season of 1845 commenced on the 4th of June, under the joint management of JOHN SEFTON and WILLIAM CHIPPENDALE. The first performance was the "Seven Castles of the Passions," in which TOM PLACIDE appeared as Canuche, Miss TAYLOR as Azele, and Miss HELEN MATTHEWS as Regaillette. On July 14, Mr. CRISP and Mrs. MOWATT made their first appearance as Claude Melnotte and Pauline; E. L. DAVENPORT was Bauseant. They were brilliantly successful. The French troupe then returned and opened on the 25th of August, closing 22d of September. On the 9th of September BROUGHAM had a benefit, presenting "The Rivals," and Mrs. DEERING made her first appearance as Mrs. Malaprop. On Oct. 6 an original comedy by EPES SARGENT, "Change Makes Change," was placed on the stage. It was a failure.

Niblo's Garden reopened in 1846, on the 8th of June, with the RAVEL Family. The dramatic company opened on the 10th, with HENRY PLACIDE as Grandfather Whitehead, Mr. HACKETT made his first appearance here as Falstaff, GEORGE VANDENHOFF being Ford, CHIPPENDALE Slender, and Miss TAYLOR Mrs. Page. "The Merry Wives of Windsor" was repeated on the 16th, and the RAVELS performed on the 17th. On the morning of the 18th the season was brought to an abrupt conclusion by the entire conflagration of the theatre.

Rebuilt in magnificent style, and surpassing all other theatres in elegance and convenience, the Summer Theatre was again opened to the public on the 30th of July, 1849, under the general management of Mr. CHIPPENDALE, with JOHN SEFTON as stage director. The first performance was given by the RAVEL family, and, on the 1st of August, the dramatic company, including Chas. Burke, Chippendale, Sefton, Hausen, with Mrs. Chas. Howard, Mrs. Watts and Miss Roberts, opened with two farces, "John Dobbs" and "Jenny Lind." On the 13th of August, Mons. PAUL BRILLANT and Mlle. JOSEPHINE BERTIN appeared for the first time in America, in the ballet of "Uriel," under the auspices of the Ravel troupe, with whom they continued for several years. On the 13th of May, 1850, the theatre was again opened under the management of CHIPPENDALE & BROUGHAM, with a drama entitled "Home," by the latter, in which Mrs. VERNON and BROUGHAM and Miss TAYLOR had the leading female parts. Miss CUSHMAN appeared here as Meg Merrilies on the 10th of June, and a week after Miss FANNY WALLACK commenced an engagement in the same character. On Monday, Sept. 2, the RAVELS returned and gave a long season, winding up on Dec. 31, 1850, in consequence of the death of ADELAIDE LEHMAN, whose clothing had taken fire some nights previously.

On the 3d of February, 1851, M. ROUSSET opened the establishment with vaudeville and ballet performances, continuing successfully until the 21st of March, with the exception of one week's recess, in consequence of the death of Mrs. NIBLO. They were succeeded by a circus company, who stayed until the end of April, when the ROUSSETS returned, in conjunction with Mr. and Mrs. JOHN SEFTON and a company that appeared in English farces. On the 2d day of June the RAVELS returned with GABRIEL RAVEL and BLONDIN, the finest rope-dancer in the world. Mr. BURTON opened on the next evening in the "Rivals," bringing with him his company from Chambers-street, including Henry Placide, Burton, Blake, Lester, Sefton, Skerrett, Mone and Holman, Mrs. J. Wallack, Jr., Mrs. J. Sefton, Miss Weston, Miss Hill, Mrs. Holman, and others. On the 18th, Mme. A. THILLON made her first appearance in the "Crown Diamonds," an opera written for her by SCRIBE and AUBER. On the 3d of December the fourth annual benefit of the American Dramatic Fund took place here. ADELINA PATTI, then a child of eight years astonished the New-Yorkers by her wonderful voice and singing. The Ravel performances concluded on the 8th of January, 1852, and on the 12th the Italian Artists' Union, including BOSIO BADIALI, LORINI, COLETTI, and others, commenced a series of operas. In June, Mr. G. V. BROOKE appeared. Signor BOCHSER, on Nov. 1, superintended the introduction for the first time in America of FLOTOW's opera of "Martha," which ran seven nights. Jan. 10, 1853, BADIALI took the house for a season of Italian opera, opening with the "Fille du Regiment," with Mme. SONTAG in the part of Marie. On the 28th of March LE GRAND SMITH's opera troupe commenced an engagement with "Don Pasquale," having ALBONI for Norina, and Signor SALVI for Ernesto. ANTONIO RAVEL made his last appearance on the 20th of October, 1853. Mme ANNA THILLON concluded her season on the 13th of December, having produced MEYERBEER's grand opera of "The Prophet."

The Summer season of 1854 commenced on the 8th day of May with the RAVEL family. In October the RAVELS wound up on the 23d, and the BATEMAN children appeared, playing until the 11th of November. Nov. 20 GEORGE HARRISON produced AUBKER's opera of the "Syren," ending his performances on the 3d of January, 1855. A German opera company succeeded, but on the 23d of May the regular season commenced, with GEORGE HARRISON and the PYNE sisters, in English opera. The company included Mr. and Mrs. HOLMAN. They closed on the 3d of November, having played 125 nights. On the 12th of November Mlle. RACHEL appeared and played for six nights.

MARETZEK, on the 13th of April, 1857, opened a season of opera, with GAZZANIGA and CAROLINE RICHINGS. On the 29th May, the BLAKES, Mr. G. JORDAN, T. PLACIDE and Miss GANNON commenced a series of light comedies, and alternated with the RAVELS during the Summer.

In January, 1858, DAN RICE's equestrian company opened, and remained until March 23, when the RAVELS returned and played until June 19, 1858, when they returned to France. June 21, Miss CUSHMAN commenced a farewell engagement in "Henry VIII.," supported by E. L. DAVENPORT and JOHN GILBERT. On the 6th of September BOUCICAULT and AGNES ROBERTSON commenced an engagement in "Jessie Brown." They also played for sixty-six nights in the "Phantom." Nov. 22 GABRIEL RAVEL and Young America returned. In 1859 Mr. EDDY brought his company, with JULIA DEAN HAYNE, from the Broadway Theatre, and played "Antony and Cleopatra" and "Rob Roy." June 15, E. L. DAVENPORT appeared as Damon, and on the 16th as Brutus, with EDDY as Cassius and Mr. PERRY as Mark Antony. Mr. EDDY closed on the 30th with a benefit, at which EDWIN BOOTH appeared as Iago, and Mme. PONISI as Emelia. SARA STEVENS was Desdemona. On the 1st of August, 1859, the RAVELS again came back, and on the 4th produced Mlle. MARION HERRICOURT in "La Sylphide." They were succeeded on the 3d of October by Mr. BURTON and company, under the management of Mr. EDDY. On the 15th, BURTON made his last appearance to a New-York audience at a grand benefit. On the 17th of October, Mr. and Mrs. BARNEY WILLIAMS, after four years in Europe, reappeared and played for thirty-six nights. Miss HERON appeared as Camille, on November 28, and repeated the performance for her benefit on the 9th of December. EDDY closed his lease on the 17th with a benefit, when he appeared as Sir Edward Mortimer.

In 1860, the theatre opened under the management of Mr. J. F. NIXON, with Cook's Royal Circus. In June, JOHN BROUGHAM's "Po-ca-hon-tas" was brought out. In September, EDWIN FORREST entered on a long and successful engagement.

In 1861, FORREST and CHANFRAU were the principal actors.

In 1862 Mr. WM. WHEATLEY became lessee and manager, and brought out "School for Scandal," with a cast including Mr. WHEATLEY, E. L. DAVENPORT, MARK SMITH and J. W. WALLACK. On Jan. 22 Mr. HACKETT appeared as Falstaff, followed by Mrs. JOHN WOOD and the Caroline Richings opera troupe, and MATILDA HERON in "Camille." In 1863 Mr. BANDMANN appeared, and Miss BATEMAN brought out "Leah the Forsaken." The "Duke's Motto," with Mr. WHEATLEY as Lagadere, had a very long run this year.

In 1864, Mr. and Mrs. BARNEY WILLIAMS were the principal attraction. In 1865, MAGGIE MITCHELL, LUCILLE WESTERN and EDWIN FORREST appeared. In 1866, on the 12th of September, the famous "Black Crook" was produced, with JARRETT & PALMER's Parisienne Ballet, and run until Jan. 4, 1868.

It is somewhat a singular coincidence that Messrs. JARRETT & PALMER were, in 1866, the sufferers by a mishap similar to that of yesterday. They had imported some scenery, which, with the celebrated Parisian ballet troupe, they were about producing at the old Academy of Music. Most of the machinery was in that building, which took fire and was totally destroyed. Then the coalition was formed by these gentlemen with Mr. WILLIAM WHEATLEY, resulting in the production of the "Black Crook," which made all their fortunes. On the 15th January, 1868, the "White Fawn" was produced under the same management, followed by the opera bouffe of "Barbe Bleue" by BATEMAN's famous company. On the 31st August Mr. WHEATLEY retired from the management, and JARRETT & PALMER became the sole lessees, and have conducted the house ever since during the Summer months.

Mr. JACOB ZIMMERMAN, the Treasurer of the theatre, had just concluded a lease of the theatre for the ensuing Summer season, and intended to open with Mrs. JAMES A. OATES' burlesque troupe. The fire has proved a great prospective pecuniary loss to him.

The Van Saun Forgery Case.

The examination in the Broad-street forgery case was resumed before Judge DOWLING yesterday morning. The prisoner, ALBERT VAN SAUN, was surrounded by friends and relatives, principally ladies, but his mother was not present. The first witness called by the Assistant District-Attorney was ALFRED H. TENISON, the paying teller of the Continental National Bank. He testified that he was paying teller in the month of August, 1871, and that the firm of C. M. HARRIS & Co. kept an account there. He believed that there were three members of the firm, but he was only acquainted with two, C. M. HARRIS and ALBERT VAN SAUN.

At this point, Mr. HENRY L. CLINTON asked for an adjournment of the case for one day to give him time to become acquainted with the facts, as he had only just that moment been associated with Mr. HALL in the defense of the prisoner. After some discussion, the Judge, with considerable reluctance, granted the motion, and the case was accordingly adjourned until 10 A. M. this morning. The District-Attorney informed the reporter of the TIMES that he believed he should be able to secure a conviction even without the famous check, and that he had some evidence in the background which would greatly surprise the public.

Base-Ball Notes.

At the Capitoline, yesterday, the Atlantics were easily defeated by the Troy Club by a score of sixteen to one, the Atlantics, although playing fairly yet being unable to cope with the veteran Trojans, who played a generally admirable game. The batting of GEDNEY on one side, and the third-base play of FERGUSON on the other, were the features of the game, which was witnessed by about six hundred spectators, including the players of the Mutual and Boston Clubs.

Today, Atlantic vs. Boston at Capitoline, and Troy vs. Eckfords on Union.

Yesterday the Eckfords defeated the Chelseas by thirty-seven to fourteen, the former making fifty-two base hits.

The Case of Michael Hayes, the Alleged Murderer—Motion for his Release.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, before Recorder HACKETT, an application was made for the release of MICHAEL HAYES, who is now in custody under an indictment charging him with the murder of JAMES O'DONNELL fifteen years ago. The case has been on the calendar eight times, but in each instance the complainant, a man named ROCHESTER, failed to put in an appearance. Yesterday morning he sent a note stating that he was prevented from being in attendance in consequence of ill-health, but the prisoner had four witnesses to prove that, on Sunday, he was in a lager-beer saloon in Hoboken in the enjoyment of perfect health. Counsel moved that the prisoner be released, as it was evident there was no intention on the part of ROCHESTER to bring the matter before a jury. He was a notorious black-mailer, and because HAYES refused to give him $30 he instituted the present proceedings. The Recorder set the case down peremptorily for trial next Monday, and intimated that if ROCHESTER did not then appear he would direct the prisoner's release.

REVISING THE COINAGE LAWS.

Report of the Chamber of Commerce Committee—Resolutions to be Sent to Congress.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday, Mr. WILLIAM E. DODGE in the chair, to consider the report of the Committee on Coinage on the bill before Congress to revise the Coinage laws of the United States. The report was long, but as Mr. SAMUEL B. RUGGLES, the Chairman of the Committee, recited its principal points at the April meeting of the Chamber, and they were given next day in the TIMES, there is no necessity of repeating them here. The report was unanimously adopted. Mr. RUGGLES then offered the following resolutions, which were adopted unanimously and copies ordered to be transmitted to both Houses of Congress:

Resolved, That in view of the bill now pending in Congress, for revising the laws relative to the coinage of the United States, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New-York respectfully requests the Senators and Representatives from said State to urge upon Congress the propriety and importance of exempting the coinage of gold and silver from all charges, beyond the actual cost of refining and coining and a small percentage sufficient to provide a fund for withdrawing from circulation and recoining the the gold and silver coins of the United States, whenever worn by use below "the standard limit of tolerance," prescribed or to be prescribed by law.

Resolved, That the Chamber perceives, with great satisfaction, that the pending bill provides that the gold dollar shall be "the unit of value," and that the silver dollar shall hereafter be a legal tender only for amounts not exceeding $5, thereby putting an end in the United States to the absurdity of a "double standard" for legal money, and establishing gold as the single and only standard. The bill further proposes to reduce the weight of the silver dollar (now 412¼ grains, at which it has virtually ceased to circulate) to 384 grains, being double the present weight of the half dollar and other subdivisions of the dollar. In view, however, of the important fact that, by an addition to the proposed weight of 384 grains of only one grain and four-fifths of a grain, (being in money value less than half a cent,) the weight of the new dollar may be established at 385 80-100 grains, practically, the exact equiponderant of twenty-five even metric grammes. This is the actual legal weight in silver, nine-tenths fine, of the five-franc silver coin of France, Belgium and Switzerland; of the five lire, silver coin of Italy; of the five drachma, silver coin of Greece; of the five peseta, silver coin of Spain, and precisely equivalent to two florins of the new coinage proposed for Austria, and about to be established. The new dollar of the United States having a population of 40,000,000, with this metric weight, would circulate side by side with the silver coinages of all those nations, having a population exceeding 125,000,000. The wide-spread unification of silver thus obtained without loss or inconvenience to the United States, and with a change so trifling from the existing subdivisions of its silver coin, would, in its turn, inevitably lead to the more important unification of the present varying gold coinages of the world. It is in view of these facts that the Chamber ventures to express the hope, by the present resolution, that the Congress and the Executive authorities of the United States will not hesitate to adopt this weight of twenty-five metric grammes, or 385 80-100 grains, for the new silver dollar, leading to results so important to the civilization of the age.
